Trail Man to Stand Trial For Lad's Death Driver Committed After Preliminary Hearing In Court

Magistrate George Jay Holds Evidence Warrants Trial in Case of Robert D. Hall, Charged With Death of Lloyd Edgelow; Youthful Driver of Car Which Killed Nurse Violet Elderton Exonerated and Freed

In two manslaughter hearings before him this morning, Magistrate George Jay committed the automobile driver for trial and discharged another. The cases arose out of fatal accidents in the last month.

Robert D. Hall, accountant at the B.C. smelter, was committed to stand trial for the death of Lloyd Edgelow, three-and-one-half years old, Cook Street, near Collinson Street, September 15.

The sixteen-year-old driver of a car which collided with a bicycle ridden by Nurse Violet Elderton, causing her death on September 2 at the intersection of Cook and Yates Streets, was exonerated by the magistrate as the case was dismissed.

Both hearings were held in City Court, the Hall case being concluded first. W. H. Bullock-Webster appeared for Mr. Hall and C. L. Harris for the prosecution.

Before Judge Lampan this afternoon, Mr. Hall was set at liberty. He was released from custody in hall had been arranged. R. D. Hall was the first witness called on the charge against Hall, testifying in regard to injuries sustained by the boy.

Dr. Katherine Fairbairn, 1025 1/2 Street, the only eye-witness, testified that the car was in the street when the boy was knocked down by the car and the car hit the boy. She testified she had seen the car run across the boulevard in front of her as she was driving south on Cook Street. The car was in the path of Mr. Hall's car, which was driving north on Cook Street, she said.

There was an affirmed report circulating in Sydney to-day that all the 12,000 men of District 28 (Nova Scotia) of Mine Workers of America, may go out in support of Florence miners went on strike Monday in protest at the retention of a company convicted in police court of using violence on coal mines and of denying miners of their earnings. An emergency meeting of District 28 today was unanimously agreed to remain on strike until the injustice is righted.

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE FOR REMONETIZING OF SILVER NOW LOOMING ON HORIZON

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 23.—In an empire silver men seem agreed that an international conference remonetizing silver is looming. England's action in suspending gold standard, they said, would raise the price of silver, and in furtherance of the metal and remove England's objections to an international conference.

John W. Finch of the University of Idaho School of Mines said Britain's action "would result in restoration of silver in India and Russia by forcing coinage and use of the metal."

Move Will Benefit British Position

Suspension of Gold Standard Expected to Increase Exports From Britain With U.S. Feeling Competition, View Taken in Washington; France Holds 25 Per Cent of World's Gold; United States 50 Per Cent

By KEN CLARK, Canadian Press Staff Writer
Washington, D.C., Sept. 23.—Uncertainty as to the effect of Great Britain's temporary suspension of the gold standard was partially relieved here by statements in high quarters offering the following opinions:

The British move would benefit the British position.

An increase in exports from Great Britain was expected.

A rise in the cost of living in Great Britain was anticipated.

Exports from the United States in competition with British exports might suffer to a slight degree.

President Hoover conferred with Secretary of State, Henry L. Stimson, and the Secretary of Commerce, Robert C. Lamont, with whom he had considered the British financial position last Friday, two days before the decision to suspend gold payments was announced by the British government.

Information received from France indicated late last week the French government had been agreeable to supporting the move by further credits. It is noted in this connection that France is at present in possession of 25 per cent of the world's gold supply while the United States holds 50 per cent and the remaining 25 per cent is distributed among forty-two nations.

Russia Mobilizes Forces on North Manchuria Border

Peiping, Sept. 23.—Reports received to-day said Russian troops were mobilizing on the north Manchurian border and that Chinese troops were evacuating Harbin in anticipation of its occupation by Japanese forces.

Montagu Norman Made Dash For London Express

Liverpool, Sept. 23.—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, returned to-day on the liner Duchess of Bedford from a five-week visit to Canada, ostensibly to improve his health.

Having wired for a tender to meet him, he dashed for the London express as soon as he reached the landing stage and began dictating letters to a secretary before the train left the station.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN BRITAIN IS LESS

London, Sept. 23.—The unemployment total on September 15 was 11,551 less than the previous week. The total was 2,789,080. This is the first decrease in unemployment figures for nine weeks.

OUSTING NAPIER CAUSES STIR IN CIVIL SERVICE

Commissioner Denies Report That He Had Voluntarily Resigned Office

He Will Complete Report Despite Desire of Government to Side-track

Issuing of a statement by Col. R. Ross Napier, department commissioner, giving in detail the means by which he was forced out to make way for Major Roger Monteith, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Conservative organization, caused a stir in the city to-day, particularly among civil servants.

General details of the move had been known for some time, but the open break between the colonel and the Tolmie Cabinet came only this week.

Because of the success with which he conducted the investigation into liquor operations throughout the province, with marked satisfaction irrespective of party, the Tolmie Government brought Col. Napier from up-country to make a full investigation and report on the civil service of B.C. with a view to bringing about its reorganization.

DID NOT RESIGN
"I want to correct any idea suggested by the report in the Colonist that I resigned," said Col. Napier this afternoon.

"My position as departmental commissioner was terminated by the government without notice. I was afterwards offered a subordinate position in the department, the administration of which I had severely criticized in my capacity as departmental commissioner. The circumstances made it obviously impossible for me to accept it." (Concluded on Page 2)

Sir T. White Silent Over Cabinet Job

Ottawa, Sept. 23.—Sir Thomas White, Canada's war-time minister of finance, was in Ottawa to-day but he denied his visit had anything to do with the Canadian dollar. Premier R. B. Bennett gave a luncheon to-day to Sir T. White, A. F. Winnington-Ingram, Bishop of London, and Sir Thomas was one of the guests.

The former finance minister refused to be interviewed on the fall of the Canadian dollar or the abandonment by Great Britain of the gold standard. "I had a chat with the Prime Minister," was the brief statement of Sir Thomas White when asked if he had been approached to re-enter the Dominion cabinet. All questions were parried firmly and briefly with the statement: "I have nothing to say."

FAST PROFITS MADE BY SLIP IN EXCHANGE

Holders of Bonds Get 10 Per Cent Premium on Sales in New York

Wide swings in exchange since Britain abandoned the gold standard have resulted in some Victorians making quick and large profits.

Banks here to-day were buying United States bills, paying a premium of five cents on each dollar. This brought a general searching of tills and pocketbooks for American money.

Many five dollar American bills were brought into the banks, which gave the owners $5.25 in Canadian money.

Banks, however, are not paying a premium for American silver money.

After being down to 89 cents yesterday, the Canadian dollar climbed back to around 93 and 94 cents to-day.

The rush of Canadian holders of American money and bonds to cash in on the big premium was an important factor in bringing back the Canadian dollar, the banks said.

As the Canadian dollar climbed, the pound sterling sank lower and lower in terms of Canadian money. Yesterday the pound sterling here was above $4.60. To-day it was down to between $4.38 and $4.51, Victoria price. The pound sterling remained about the same in New York, around $4.10.

Holders here of bonds and stocks listed in New York are now rushing to sell them there to get the advantage of the big premium. Yesterday bonds were sold through banks and brokers here and the vendors received in Canadian money a premium of 10 per cent on the whole price, which, they pointed out, more than equalled the interest for two years to come, and giving them the use of their money here during that time.

BALDWIN IS AT HELM IN LONDON

Conservative Leader Acting Premier of Britain in Absence of MacDonald

Election Rumors Continue With Lloyd George Opposed to Move

London, Sept. 23.—Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservative Party, was at the helm of the British government for the first time since 1929 to-day.

As Lord President of the Council, Mr. Baldwin became Acting Prime Minister yesterday when Ramsay MacDonald left for a secret destination in the country to recuperate from the strain of keeping the pound sterling afloat on the world's money markets.

Mr. MacDonald's friends and associates were not alarmed over his condition, and felt that a few days' golf and rest would restore him to tip-top shape.

The Daily Express quoted Mr. MacDonald as having told a colleague recently that on his customary early morning walks he often meets those who tell him how pale and haggard he is and others who congratulate him on looking so well.

POLITICIANS SHIFT LOT
"The first fellow telephones his friends that I seem at death's door," the Prime Minister was quoted: "While the other spreads the news that I am as fit as a fiddle, and they are both right. It only shows what a shift lot we politicians are."

Some papers saw in his departure a connection with the growing movement for an early election on a tariff issue. The Herald, Labor organ, said he was being offered a bewildering variety of advice, and was slipping away to take counsel with himself.

Other newspapers wrote of the election as an assured fact and claimed to be able even to set the date. They reiterated that Mr. MacDonald was willing to go to the people with a tariff policy.

Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, was understood, however, to be hostile to an election.

Archbishop Worrell of Nova Scotia Elected By Synod As Primate of All Canada To-day

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 23.—Most Rev. C. L. Worrell of Halifax, Archbishop of Nova Scotia since 1915, was to-day elected primate of all Canada by the House of Bishops of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada.

He succeeds Most Rev. S. F. P. Matheson of Winnipeg, who retired from office last year.

Archbishop Worrell, who has been acting as primate for the last year, is now the senior prelate of the Anglican Communion in Canada. He became Bishop of Nova Scotia in 1904 after twenty-three years of service in the church. This summer he celebrated his seventy-eighth birthday.

Srinagar, India, Sept. 23.—Four Moslems were killed and six were wounded to-day when troops fired on a rioting mob. The government forces also suffered casualties before order was restored.

The Srinagar affair is regarded as serious as the Amritsar episode in the Punjab several years ago when rioting natives were fired upon by British troops with considerable loss of life, resulting in an inquiry and withdrawal of the officer in command of the forces stationed there.

London, Sept. 23.—Mahatma Gandhi's protest against the linking of the Indian rupee with the British pound was a subject of controversy to-day in the federal structures committee.

Gandhi said he was surprised and grieved at the action of government officials in India in suspending the statutory obligation to sell sterling or gold against rupees on account of the financial crisis in Great Britain.

"What pains me," he said, "is the fact that the decision was taken over the heads of the legislature, and in my view it is a striking proof of the bending attitude of the government in India."

Other members of the committee replied that the measure was in the best interests of India and helped to operate in tiding Great Britain through a difficult financial period. Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary of State for India, has asked the delegates to support the stability of the rupee.

Action Follows Theatre Report; B.C. Likely to Line Up in Prosecution

The Attorney-General's Department of British Columbia is in communication with Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General of Ontario, regarding the joint prosecution by four provinces against the alleged moving picture combine, which is believed to exist in the provinces of Ontario, British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The action follows the report of Peter White, K.C., whose investigations led to the charge that an illegal combine exists in Canada's motion picture industry. This report has been before the British Columbia Attorney-General's Department as well as those of the other provinces for some months.

While the Attorney-General's Department was not prepared to confirm the report, a decision had been reached for the four provinces named to join in an action at the Toronto Assizes on October 5, it was intimated that this was the object in view, and a definite announcement might be expected soon.

The announcement from Toronto that action against the alleged combine would be started there, next month was made by the Attorney-General.

Smith Falls, Ont. He was educated at Trinity College, Toronto, and ordained deacon in 1881 and priest in 1884, after serving as curate of Gananoque.

The primate is experienced as an educationist as well as priest. From 1882 to 1884 he was curate of Holy Trinity Church, Brockville, and headmaster of Brockville High School. After brief periods in Williamsburg and Morrisburg, he was professor of English literature at the Royal Military College, Kingston, from 1891 to 1904, at the same time serving churches in that vicinity.

In 1877 he married the late Charlotte Ward, daughter of Major-General T. W. Ward, F.R.S. They had one son and three daughters. He was married again in 1917 to Miss Annie H. Abbott of Halifax.

Archbishop Worrell takes an active interest in the social life of Halifax, and is a past president of the Canadian Club.

Kidd New Catholic Bishop of London

London, Ont., Sept. 23.—St. Rev. John T. Kidd, formerly Bishop of Calgary, is already technically Bishop of London diocese of the Roman Catholic Church, although formal installation will not take place until this evening. Bishop Kidd met Monsignor A. P. Mahoney, acting administrator of London diocese, and Monsignor J. P. Stanley, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, London, in Toronto last night and the papal edicts which place Bishop Kidd in charge of the diocese were presented by Monsignor Mahoney.

The apostolic delegate, Rev. Andrea Casullo, is coming from Ottawa to attend the installation ceremony here, which will take place in St. Peter's Cathedral. On Thursday morning Bishop Kidd will celebrate his first pontifical mass at the cathedral.

DON'T CUT IN ON MISSIONS, SAYS BISHOP

Warning Given Synod Against Policy of Dividing Church Work in Sparse Areas

Canadian Press
Toronto, Sept. 23.—Warning against the policy of dividing with other Protestant denominations church work in sparsely-settled areas of Canada was sounded yesterday by Rt. Rev. A. F. Winington-Ingram, Bishop of London, England, delivering a farewell message to the general synod of the Church of England in Canada.

"Do not be hopelessly afraid of trying to cover the whole ground yourselves," said the bishop. "You have hundreds of years ahead of you and hard work will accomplish anything. Reciprocal arrangements were tried in Fiji and other parts of the world, and they did not work out. People of Anglican faith and inclinations want the whole Gospel and the sacraments."

His advice was given in relation to a recommendation of the Anglican national commission that the church co-operate with the United and Presbyterian Churches in evangelical work in sparsely-settled areas of western Canada. No definite action was taken to implement the recommendation.

"Where you find isolated districts that other communions have already established a mission or parish, do not try to cut in on them. Wish them God speed and hope that they may flourish in the good work they are doing in the interests of the Christian faith," added the bishop.

PRISONERS HIT BY MONEY RATE

Bellingham, Wash., Sept. 23.—Britain's financial problem reached the Whatcom County jail today when County Clerk Archie B. Stewart announced that prisoners may post Canadian money but that it would suffer the current rate of discount.

Bellingham merchants and bankers today raised the discount rate to 15 per cent. The previous discount was 10 per cent.

Several restaurants were demanding a discount of 16 per cent, but the reason for the variance could not be learned.

REDUCTIONS IN GENERAL MOTORS

Canadian Press
Oshawa, Ont., Sept. 23.—Salary reductions announced yesterday by the General Motors Corporation at Detroit apply to Canadian as well as United States plants, an official of the company said yesterday evening.

The reductions, he added, will affect office employees, executives, sales representatives and others in similar positions, but will not apply to the men in the shops and on the lines.

Silver Taboo In Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Canadian Press
Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 23.—Storekeepers of Niagara Falls, N.Y., yesterday refused to accept Canadian silver or copper coins, and asked 40 per cent discount on Canadian dollars.

A newspaperman from this city went across the border and visited nine stores. He found that a Dominion dollar bill was worth only sixty cents across the counter while silver was taboo.

Canadian Money On Detroit Banks

Detroit, Sept. 23.—Most Detroit banks were accepting Canadian money at a 15 per cent discount. The action, they said, was due to fluctuations in the exchange at New York. It was expected an adjustment would be made as soon as the rate of New York became more settled. Certain retail stores also were accepting Canadian money at a discount.

About 150,000 persons are born every day and about 100,000 die in the same period.

MAN HANGED AT TORONTO TO-DAY

John Brokenshire of Windsor Pays Penalty For Murder of Police Constable

Canadian Press
Toronto, Sept. 23.—Walking steadily to the scaffold, John Brokenshire, of Windsor, was hanged this morning at the local jail for the murder of a police constable here December 11 last. Just before the trap was sprung, Brokenshire said, "God be merciful to me, a miserable sinner."

The trap was sprung at 7.57. Throughout the night Brokenshire maintained a perfect calm according to his spiritual adviser. He dressed, ate a fair breakfast and met death bravely.

Shortly after he was told that his appeals for clemency had been refused at Ottawa, Brokenshire yesterday evening wrote to Mrs. McQuillan, wife of the murdered constable, expressing his sorrow at committing the crime for which he was executed today.

On December 11, 1930, Constable McQuillan was shot to death when he halted Brokenshire and a companion, Harry Clarkson, who were driving a stolen automobile. Another constable, Roy Halliburton, opened fire, wounding Brokenshire, but both he and Clarkson escaped.

Shortly after midnight, Clarkson was captured in Humber Heights Cemetery. Twenty hours after the crime, and after the greatest police hunt in the history of Ontario, Brokenshire, too, was captured, near Oakville, Ont. Again, he was wounded, and, near death, he was taken to hospital in Toronto, where he lay for months. He was tried at the spring assizes and sentenced to death.

Clarkson was charged with carrying concealed weapons, convicted and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

HOPE FOR CRAMER IS RAISED BY RADIO APPEALS

London, Sept. 23.—Hope that Parker D. Cramer, United States airman, who was lost on a flight from Detroit to Copenhagen, remains alive lingered today.

On the request of the United States embassy, the British Broadcasting Company appealed to ships in North Sea waters and residents of the barren Orkney and Shetland Islands to keep a sharp watch for Cramer and his radio operator, Oliver Pasquette.

The radioed message said that the wreckage of Cramer's plane, recently salvaged by the British trawler Lord Trent, indicated the possibility that the men might have taken refuge on one of the uninhabited islands.

RESCIND BAN ON SHORT SELLING

New York, Sept. 23.—The ban on short selling by the board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange Monday was rescinded today. The reports to the business conduct committee on short positions by members, however, are to continue as ordered, and it was believed in Wall Street that this check-up on their activities would make the bears cautious.

The governing committee of the exchange decided before today's opening to remove the prohibition against short sales by members, a measure invoked on Monday as a precaution against a destabilized market coincident with the British financial crisis.

Although no statement was issued, it was assumed the quiet and steady trading yesterday, together with the strong opening at London this morning, had influenced the committee to remove the restrictions.

The board of governors of the New York Curb Exchange also lifted the ban on short sales.

POSTAL SUPERANNUATION
Montreal, Sept. 23.—The United Postal Employees of Canada, in annual convention here, heard committee reports yesterday and adopted a resolution urging a reduction in employees' contributions to the superannuation fund. Pensions paid out were less than interest received on the capital amount, it was said.

TELEGRAPH ARRANGEMENTS
New York, Sept. 23.—A service arrangement whereby the Western Union Telegraph Company and R.C.A. Communications Inc. will make use of each other's facilities, has been effected, it was announced today.

R.C.M.P. MAY QUIT HORSES FOR PLANES

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 23.—Members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police may quit horses for airplanes and go soaring into the skies in search of criminals.

The famed force, inaugurated when horses were the chief western mode of transportation, will be provided with airplanes for certain work, said Brigadier-General J. H. MacBrien, commissioner of R.C.M.P., on arrival in Calgary yesterday.

General MacBrien, former head of the Aviation League of Canada, is making an inspection of R.C.M.P. detachments, and so far has visited Winnipeg, Regina, Prince Albert, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Vancouver, Victoria and Banff, and is en route east.

LABOR ASSAILS U.S. STEEL CUT

New York, Sept. 23.—Labor leaders yesterday assailed the 10 per cent wage cut announced by the U.S. Steel Corporation as tending to aggravate the business depression and to interfere with recovery.

In expressing "profound disappointment" at the announcement, Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, said it might prove the signal for general wage reduction all along the line with consequent "more serious perturbations than we have yet witnessed in the nation's economic life."

U.S. Steel's action, he said, was in direct contradiction of the policy adopted by the concern several years ago of cutting dividends to maintain the wage scale.

John Sullivan, president of the New York State Federation of Labor, said he was "astounded at such a shortsighted action."

SILVER TO THE FRONT

UNDER THE PRESIDENCY OF SIR Robert Horne, the China Association of Great Britain met yesterday and formed a "Silver Association," an executive committee of fifty being formed to draw up a definite plan to submit to the British government with a request that it initiate an international silver conference. The organization passed a resolution expressing the view that the restoration of the value of silver, now at a low ebb in world markets, "offers the quickest and most effective remedy for the present disastrous fall of prices."

Silver as an issue, of course, is not new; but it has taken on fresh significance since Great Britain decided to abandon the gold standard as a temporary means of assisting her to solve her financial difficulties. It will be recalled by students of history that William Jennings Bryan first attracted attention to himself and his ability in debate when he delivered his famous speech against the repeal of the silver purchase clause of the Sherman Act in 1893. He advocated at that time the unlimited coinage of silver, irrespective of international agreement, at the ratio of sixteen to one, a policy with which his name was afterward most prominently associated. He was then a member of the House of Representatives for the First Congressional District of Nebraska—a Democrat representing a normally Republican stronghold—and in a campaign largely restricted to the question of free-silver coinage he was defeated for re-election in 1894, and subsequently was also defeated as the Democratic candidate for the United States Senate. As the editor of The Omaha World-Herald, however, he championed the cause of bimetallism in its columns as vigorously as he had in Congress and on the platform, his articles being widely quoted and discussed.

The Democratic party was even more radically divided on the question of monetary policy than the Republican; and President Cleveland, by securing the repeal of the silver purchase clause in the Sherman Act by Republican votes, had alienated a great majority of his party. In the Democratic national convention at Chicago in 1896, during a long and heated debate with regard to the party platform, Bryan, in advocating the "plank" declaring for the free coinage of silver, of which he was the author, delivered a celebrated speech containing the passage: "You shall not press down upon the brow of labor that crown of thorns; you shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold." This speech made him the idol of the "silver" majority of the convention and brought him the Democratic nomination for the presidency on the following day. Subsequently he received the nomination of the People's and National Silver parties. In the ensuing presidential campaign he traveled over 18,000 miles, and made altogether 600 speeches in twenty-seven different states, an unprecedented number. In the election, however, he was defeated by William McKinley, the Republican candidate, receiving 176 electoral votes to 271.

William Jennings Bryan is no more; but the cause to which he devoted so much time and study is likely to engage the attention of most of the world's governments in the near future. Whether the restoration of the value of silver will prove to be a really important factor in financial rehabilitation remains to be seen. The proposal has its opponents; but the majority view seems to be that it offers one way out of the present mess.

HELPING THE HELPLESS

SEVERAL DAYS AGO A CHICAGO woman, suffering from a rare and deadly disease, lay at the point of death. Her doctors said that she would quickly die if she could not be given a certain type of gland extract. There was none of this in Chicago—the only available supply was in Buffalo. Observe, now, how readily distant strangers acted to save this woman's life.

A Buffalo scientist put the extract at her disposal. Buffalo policemen rushed into the airport, and officials of an air transport company, notified of the proceedings, telegraphed from Washington that their westbound plane was to wait for the medicine, no matter how badly it disrupted the schedule. Reaching Chicago by air, the medicine was hurried to the hospital by police escort. There it was administered, and the woman's life was saved.

Upwards of a dozen total strangers, most of them living far away, had co-operated in the winning fight. Their sympathy was concentrated on one suffering individual. The case was dramatic, exciting, from start to finish. But how different it all is when we have, not one sufferer, but several hundred—or several thousand—in circumstances that are not dramatic but simply depressing. So it goes. We will do almost anything for one individual. When a group is involved we are apt to be indifferent.

LURE OF THE QUEST

MEN ARE TREKKING TO THE WEST again, writes an eastern commentator. When the price of gold was fixed at $20 an ounce by international agreement, not long ago, hundreds of the unemployed remembered that the creek beds in the hills are said by some to hold nuggets. So they have started the old adventure. They have become placer miners who start out every morning with the hope that today they will find the precious ore. They have become weary men who come home every evening, wondering if the quest is futile some days, surprised at their sudden good fortune on others.

For the first time in forty years Montana newspapers are advertising gold-panning equipment. But the present rush is only a postscript that has been added to the long parade which rode the far trails westward in a pioneering yesterday. Then there was a buccannery spirit of adventure. To-day there is a panic-stricken urge to discover gold since no other employment doors are open.

Yesterday belongs to a romantic yarn of new countries. To-day belongs to the economic chronicles of great nations.

Yesterday men's hearts sang as they followed the dusty roads. Hope rode high as the green boughs burst into pink and white riot of flowering blossoms, or the flame shades of autumn and the white frost of a too-cold evening made them urge their horses faster. To-day they go, not so much because they seek fortunes as livelihoods. Making a living is never as colorful as making an adventure.

Men took along a caravan of visions yesterday. Their wind-blown, rain-faded wagons held more than the horsehair parlor furniture that their wives wanted to bring to the new land, the meal and bacon and ammunition. There was a lonely ecstatic joy when they swung toward the promised land, and a sharper thrill when they saw it over the ridge. The Children of Israel who roamed for forty years before they came to Canaan had felt that same fierce joy when the long road home was ended.

Perhaps a little of this old venturing spirit will come back to the modern placer miners. If it does, whether they find gold or not will not be so important. The lure of the quest, that something which reaches beyond, forever unsatisfied, will return. And that, after all, is worth more than a nugget or two.

HOW THE DOLE WORKS

WITH THE DOLE SUCH AN IMPOR- tant factor in Great Britain's economy plans, and with discussions on the same sort of relief going on in the United States, The Times publishes for the benefit of its readers the following explanation of how the system works in Britain and how the funds for distribution are obtained:

Employed men aged twenty-one to sixty-five years give each week 7 pence; their employer contributes 8 pence, and the Exchequer 7½ pence, a total of 22½ pence (about 45 cents). Young men, eighteen to twenty-one, contribute weekly 6 pence, their employers 7 pence, and the Exchequer 6½ pence, a total of 19½ pence (about 40 cents). Boys under eighteen contribute 3½ pence, their employers 4 pence, the Exchequer 3½ pence, a total of 11½ pence (about 23 cents). Women aged twenty-one to sixty-five contribute 6 pence weekly, their employers 7 pence, and the Exchequer 6½ pence, a total of 19½ pence (about 40 cents). Women eighteen to twenty-one contribute 5 pence weekly, their employers 6 pence, and the Exchequer 5½ pence, a total of 16½ pence (about 33 cents). Girls under eighteen contribute 3 pence, their employers 3½ pence, and the Exchequer 3½ pence, a total of 9½ pence weekly (about 20 cents).

And here are the weekly rates of benefit:

	Dollars
Men aged 21 to 65	4.25
Men aged 18 to 21	3.50
Boys aged 17 to 18	2.25
Boys under 17	1.50
Women aged 21 to 65	3.75
Women aged 18 to 21	3.00
Girls aged 17 to 18	1.87½
Girls under 17	1.25

Persons under sixteen and sixty-five or over are not entitled to receive the benefits. Persons over sixty-five years old are eligible to receive old age pensions. The insured may also receive 9 shillings weekly for an adult dependent (wife, husband if he is prevented by physical or mental infirmity from supporting himself, dependent father, step-father, widowed mother, etc.) and 2 shillings weekly for each dependent child.

The insured worker receives an employment book, in which during the term of his employment, his contributions to the insurance fund are recorded. Upon the loss of employment he must present himself at an employment exchange, and surrender his book. Thereafter, he must present himself at the exchange several times a week and accept suitable employment if such is available. If no job is offered, he receives the dole, and signs a receipt.

It will be recalled that Mr. Snowden explained that the unemployment fund was $400,000,000 in debt and that it was going behind at the rate of about $5,000,000 a week. No more borrowing for it will be permitted and the cut just made is approximately ten per cent all round.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

TO SAVE THE WILD FLOWERS

The Ohio State Journal

Looks like about the only way to insure preservation of the wild flowers of this country is to cross them with poison ivy.

THE CHAMPION HOG

The Winnipeg Tribune

Down in the enlightened and sovereign state of Minnesota, they have been holding a contest to see who among the gourmands could eat the most corn. In an age that has given birth to such weird phenomena as flagpole sitters, walkathons and rocking chair contests one may expect to find almost any brand of idiosyncrasy.

But the spectacle of supposedly intelligent humans gorging themselves with corn to the point of actual pain to win some absurd title stretches our capacity for amusement to the limit.

These absurd contests are increasing in number and kind. But one grand contest remains to be held. And we feel that a just Providence would readily sanction it.

We suggest that someone call together all the champion hog callers, walkathons, flagpole sitters, rolling high places and de luxe food guzzlers and invite them to compete in the matter of seeing who could quaff the largest quantity of prussic acid.

Then let them go home and boast about that.

A THOUGHT

A false witness shall not be unpunished, and he that speaketh lies shall perish.—Proverbs xix 9.

Falsehood and death are synonymous.—Bancroft.

Loose Ends

Some words of comfort in these abnormally normal times—some news about ourselves—and some word of the McGregors.

By H. B. W.

AS WE GYRATE from one international crisis to another, the sorrowing prayer of everyone is for a return to normal, to stability, to peace and quiet. Nearly every man would be willing to sacrifice a large part of his income, would be glad to abandon many of the luxuries of civilization, if he were guaranteed a continued possession of the remainder for the rest of his life. Thus we are all looking back fondly and hopefully to the good old days and this, it seems to me, is the basic mistake of the present time. We are never going to return to normal. Things are moving ahead so rapidly now, civilization is changing so much that we shall always be emerging from one crisis into another, we shall always be making new problems grow where only one grew before, we shall always be in the middle of strange changes and vast improvements. We might as well get used to it.

WHAT IS THE price we pay for a complicated, machine-made civilization. We have developed machinery to keep up with these changes, we are developing means of solving our problems and averting chaos. But we have not developed ourselves in the same way. We have not schooled ourselves to be happy while the world is being turned upside down every morning before breakfast. It worries us because we think it is abnormal and we long for normal. The thing to do nowadays, therefore, is to make up your mind that things will never be the same again, that we are always going to be in the middle of some new trouble. Then, even though the heavens seem about to fall, you can plod along quite comfortably because, in the end, they never do fall, and most of your worry is quite wasted. Once you can adjust your outlook, once you can realize that the abnormal is going to be the normal, you will find the going easy. Why, our grandfathers would have been disturbed by events which seem quite uninteresting to us, and our grandchildren, looking back on our times, will wonder why we became excited over a mere drop in sterling and a temporary depression in business. They will look back on these as the good old days when nothing happened.

IN HIS WEEKLY summary of British Columbia politics, the Victoria correspondent of The Vancouver Province paints a picture of this provincial capital which the man on the street would hardly recognize. But no doubt it is true, for it relates only to the inside of the Parliament Buildings, and few of us ever visit them. It seems that the things have been going on within the Parliament Buildings, only a few steps away on the other side of the Causeway, which none of us suspected. Over there, according to this authority, tragic things have been happening. "The soul of the capital is sore distressed, the illusions which shone so brightly just a few years ago have had all the gilt rubbed off them long ago, everybody is wondering what will happen next, and no one even has the heart to deny the terrible things that Mr. Pattullo has been saying about us in the interior. And when no one denies everything Mr. Pattullo ever has said or ever will say, you may know that our spirits are below zero."

WE ARE TOLD further that cabinet ministers never get their meals on time, secretaries seem to be in more or less of a continual state of starvation, the cabinet meets continually to pare down the budget, and even though the Premier's mangels, which he hoed himself before breakfast every morning, won the prize at the fair, these are terrible days across James Bay. It is interesting for Victoria to know these things, and somehow I feel Victoria called upon to help. But it is only right that mainland people, who read such news about "the capital," should know that it relates only to the James Bay region, that the rest of Victoria is going on much as usual and that so long as the grief is confined to the Parliament Buildings Victoria will bear up manfully.

NOT THAT IT matters to anyone, of course, but as a matter of record I wish to set it down here that the McGregors have returned. The McGregors, as has been faithfully recorded before, left suddenly last spring after croaking melodiously for several weeks. It is a habit they have. No sooner have we become accustomed to their croaking in the pond in the evening, no sooner have we learned to sleep in spite of their clamor, than they disappear. Where they go or what they do I have not the slightest notion. Anyway, I have it on the authority of the little girl next door that they are back. She came racing down the path through the oak trees just now to tell me about it. "I just heard a big, big lion a-roarin' in the garden!" she shouted. "It was a-roarin' and a-roarin' terrible loud."

WE HEARD not the roar of a lion but the croak of a frog, one of the homing McGregors. But do not laugh at the little girl next door. Many a sound which is taken for the croaking of a lion of business or politics in this world turns out to be only the croaking of a frog. So I said to the little girl, "Never mind if it's only a frog. There are lots of frogs in the world, and in plain English, you imagine they are lions." "Oh," said she thoughtfully, "have they got big fat tummies and gooly eyes on them, too?" "Yes," I said very wisely, "often they have." "Well," she replied, "tell 'em not to come round our garden, 'cause we've got plenty now." So we are going out to see if we can find the homing McGregors, whose voice has just come, like a lion's roar, through the oak trees.

SYNOD HEARS WARM ATTACKS ON CAPITALISM

Tone-Down Church of England Resolutions So Communists Will Not Quote Them

Toronto Gathering Told Church Should Oppose Scandals in Public Life

Canadian Press
Toronto, Ont., Sept. 23.—Unemployment and problems connected with it occupied most of yesterday's synodical sessions of the Church of England in Canada. In the end seven resolutions on the subject, six approved and one defeated, were referred to a special committee for redrafting and consolidation.

Moving that the resolutions be referred to the special committee, G. B. Nicholson, M.P. of Algoma East, urged they be toned down "lest they be misquoted on Communist platforms all across the country."

Amazement was expressed by Canon J. H. Gody of Toronto, that the synod should "try to settle by good intentions and goodwill a problem which was one of the most profound and complicated of modern times." Goodwill, unintelligently directed, could do as much harm as ill-will, he asserted.

"SELF-INTEREST"
The defeated resolution, introduced by Rev. W. H. Snell of Brantford, Ont., called upon the synod to "recognize that the spirit of the church is the spirit of self-interest, and that the legislative, industrial and other leaders of the nation and the world undertake to reform the economic system on the basis of Christ's teachings of unselfishness and brotherly love, the church to build up public opinion in support of that ideal."

On motion of Canon A. P. Gower-Rees of Montreal, the synod committed itself to the principle that "the nation is primarily responsible for the support of any citizen who, through no fault of his own, is deprived of his right to secure his own means of livelihood and the maintenance of his dependents."

Authorities of the church were asked to co-operate with other churches and the government in setting aside a day "of humiliation and prayer" upon which divine guidance would be asked for the present world problems.

Pensions to be provided under a plan submitted by Prof. M. A. MacKenzie, were approved by the synod to-night, the canon for putting the plan into motion will be presented later.

Under the scheme there will be one general pension fund for the church throughout Canada. Dioceses which have pension funds will be granted the privilege of contributing their departments with the all-Canada plan.

An annual levy of 7½ per cent on clerical stipends from the time of entry of the clergy into the service of the church will be required, and a $200,000 fund to be raised by the church at large to provide for the accrued liability.

PENSIONS FOR CLERGY
Minimum pensions of $700 per annum for clergy who retire at seventy or after, $680 for those who retire at sixty-nine and so on down to $500 for those who retire at sixty. Pensions for widows of clergy will be provided, $400 or less, depending upon the length of their marriage. Pensions for children of deceased clergymen will be $100 per year up to seven years, $200 for the next seven years and $400 for the following seven years. The minimum to widow and children not to be more than $100 a year, which the clergyman, had he lived, would have been entitled.

Parishes will pay the assessments as part of the stipend.

A demand for condemnation of "capitalistic methods" and of "financial schemes which take millions away from the many, to put it into the hands of the few," was made by Archdeacon P. G. Scott of Quebec.

When the gathering declined to discuss "the Beaubien and other scandals," as Canon Scott phrased it, he declared: "Then let us refer to the scandal of the Church of England in Canada not raising its voice against scandals and methods that are now tolerated in high quarters."

SEND BISHOPS TO COAL MINES
The Quebec churchman suggested it would be a good thing for the whole House of Bishops to go down the coal mines of Spain, and see how some men work while in the industry successful financiers make mergers, and titles and are looked on as the leaders in the financial world."

"We can pass here," he went on, "some resolution which will condemn the financial schemes which more and more take the millions from the workers and put them into the pockets of the few."

The Lower House further implemented the move to establish a fixed primatial see by passing a motion of "Chancellor R. V. Harris of Halifax."

The resolution called for appointment of a committee of both houses to inquire into the election of the see and report to the next assembly.

Chancellor Harris mentioned as possible areas the diocese of Toronto, Brandon and Quebec.

JOINS AGENCY

ROBERT MCNEIL

Appointment is announced of Robert McNeil as production manager of the British Columbia offices of George H. MacDonald Limited.

Mr. McNeil brings to his new appointment a thorough experience in all branches of creative printing, advertising and commercial research work. He has been, for the last five years, associated with the Eastman Advertising Co., where he was latterly in charge of the production department.

George H. MacDonald Limited is one of Canada's leading advertising and commercial research organizations, with head office in Toronto. In July Pacific Coast offices were established at 414-5 Province Building, Vancouver, under the management of G. A. Allen.

Up-Island Poet Renounces Her Family Name

Miss Mabel Rowbotham of Chemainus, B.C., poet and general writer, in the Supreme Court here to-day renounced her name and was granted sanction to be known under a new name as Zura de Valdes. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rowbotham of Oldham, England. No reason was given to the court for the renunciation of her name.

Miss Kathleen Burt-Smith, 1147 Newport Avenue, was the official witness on the application for the change, which was handled by J. B. Clearidge, Esq., counsel.

"I hereby renounce and abandon the use of the name Mabel Rowbotham and in lieu thereof assume the name of Zura de Valdes," she said in her statement to the court. "I hereby authorize and request all persons to designate and address me by such assumed name of Zura de Valdes only."

The Valdes name is associated with the early history of Vancouver Island, and from the explorers from Portugal has been given to one of the islands off the coast from Chemainus. Other writers have adopted the name, one here getting the court's sanction to its adoption by himself only last March, instead of his family name of Wilson.

ONTARIO WILL PROCEED WITH MOVIE CHANGE

General of that province following a three-day study by him of a report made on the White report by J. A. Humphries, K.C., solicitor for the department, and R. H. Greer, K.C.

The Ontario Attorney-General did not indicate in his statement whether the government intended to prosecute corporations or individuals, but it was intimated by Mr. Greer that proceedings might be instituted against both corporations and individuals.

PARTIES NAMED

Parties to the alleged combine named in the White report are exhibitors, producers and distributors of motion pictures. They are:

Famous Players, Canadian Corporation, B. and F. Theatres, Eastern Theatres, Premier Theatres, Manitoba Theatre Company, United Amusement Corporation, Theatre Holding Corporation, Hamilton United Theatres, Paramount Public Corporation, Canadian Educational Films, Canadian Universal Film Company, Famous Lasky Film Service, Fox Film Corporation, R.K.O. Distributing Corporation of Canada, Columbia Pictures of Canada, Regal Films, United Artists Corporation, First National Pictures, Incorporated, Warner Bros. Pictures Incorporated, Vitaphone and Tiffany Productions of Canada.

"I also find that B.C. Paramount Theatres Limited, Paramount Theatres Limited and Radio-Keith-Orpheum (Canada) Limited are parties to the combine."

LENGTHY REPORT

The history of the investigation goes back to September 23, 1930, when Mr. White was appointed a commissioner to make the investigation under the Combines Investigation Act. After hearing evidence which filled thousands of pages of records, the commissioner made his report on April 30, 1931. His finding was that, in his opinion, a combine existed in the motion picture industry in Canada and had existed at least since 1928.

There will be no arrests in connection with the prosecutions. It is felt that the return of the law to the persons indicted to appear in court.

MANITOBA INVESTIGATION

Winnipeg, Sept. 23.—No immediate action against motion picture theatre operators and agencies named in the report of Peter White, commissioner under the Combines Investigation Act, is contemplated by the province of Manitoba, Hon. W. J. Major, Attorney-General, stated to-day.

Mr. White's findings largely related to Ontario, Mr. Major stated, and the evidence was taken in that province. For this reason he considered Ontario the proper place to carry on the prosecutions. This feeling, he added, was shared by other western provincial governments.

The Manitoba authorities will watch the proceedings launched by Hon. W. H. Price, Ontario Attorney-General, closely, but Mr. Major was unable to say whether he would be represented by counsel at the trials. He expects to be in communication with Mr. Price on the matter within the next few days. In the meantime an investigation into the motion picture business in Manitoba is being carried on by the Attorney-General's department, and should a cause of action be discovered, prosecutions will be launched.

TWO HELD UP IN VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Sept. 23.—Two citizens were victims of hand-to-hand Tuesday evening. A Citron, East Hastings Street, engaged in a terrific battle with two robbers in a lane west of the 400 block, Gore Avenue, at midnight and suffered injuries about his face, according to his report to the police.

The hand-to-hand fight from his finger and fled without obtaining money or other valuables.

Frank Slown, tailor, was held up in his office at 825 Granville Street shortly after 9 o'clock and was robbed of $30 and a diamond stickpin valued at $350. Two men apparently followed Mr. Slown from a cafe to his office. He had just entered his premises when he heard a knock on his office door. He was met by two men. One covered him with a revolver and compelled him to step back. Both followed him into the room. The second man seized Mr. Slown, held a hand over mouth, searched him and took valuables.

PANGBORN WANTS BONUS VERIFIED

New York, Sept. 23.—Headquarters the projected transatlantic flight Hugh Herndon Jr. and Clyde Pangborn announced to-day the fliers would tempt to make a non-stop hop for Japan to Dallas, Texas, if a report $25,000 offer from Col. W. E. Eastwood of Dallas, can be verified.

TITHES PLAN WINS SUPPORT OF PRESBYTERY

Proposal of United Church
Moderator Endorsed By Victoria Presbytery

Church Officers, Ministers and Members Called on For $400,000 For Prairie Work

The Victoria Presbytery of the United Church yesterday afternoon concluded its fall session. The delegates endorsed the "challenge extraordinary" issued by Rev. Dr. E. H. Oliver, Moderator for Canada, which calls for heavy tithing of officers, ministers, missionaries and laymen of the church throughout Canada, with a view to raising $400,000 additional for home missions, needed as a result of the situation in the prairie provinces.

Some of the ministers present declared that their congregations would be unable to raise more than their present contributions towards home missions.

Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson stated that forty-four large boxes of clothing had been sent to Saskatchewan from the United Churches of Greater Victoria, the value being about $3,000.

The Moderator's challenge asked that, in addition to regular giving, the officers of the church appointed by the general council, and the professors in the colleges of the church, give 10 per cent of their salaries for one year; that ministers with salaries from $3,000 and upwards, with manse, give 10 per cent for one year; that field secretaries and superintendents of missions give 10 per cent for nine months; that ministers and missionaries with salaries from $2,000 to $3,000, with manse, give 10 per cent for six months; that ministers and missionaries with salaries under $2,000, with manse, give 10 per cent for three months; that lay members give at least 10 per cent of their income for three months, and that Sunday schools seek to make an extra contribution, averaging at least $1 per scholar.

RELIGION IN CAMPS
Rev. George Wilson, superintendent of missions, reported on the proposed Camp Christian Service League, to serve men working in the government road construction camps. The league had been suggested in the first instance by the United Church but would be inter-denominational. The objective would be to aid men in their personal problems, in making contacts between men and their families and the provision of wholesome occupation for the men during their leisure time.

The presbytery appointed Dr. W. G. Wilson, Rev. Percy Bunt and Capt. Wright as a special committee to visit Fort Alberni and Alberni and determine the extent of the assistance required from the Home Mission Board. They will also discuss with those congregations the possibility of union.

Rev. Mr. Burns, Duncan, chairman of the home missions committee, reported that a commission was being appointed to survey the work in Nanaimo suburban charge and that a survey will also be made of the district northward of Courtenay.

Rev. J. R. Hewitt praised the work of Cumberland of the Japanese mission being conducted by M. Niromoto.

Rev. O. M. Sanford, Victoria West, presented the report of the foreign mission committee, which stressed the urgent need of reinforcements in many of the fields, although the outlook as a whole was encouraging.

A suggestion that a day of humiliation be held throughout Canada, preferably in connection with Thanksgiving Day, was advanced by Belmont United Church, but was rejected because of the lack of time to take the matter up with the Prime Minister.

Langford

The annual meeting of the Langford Infraterritorial Association was held at Langford Lakeside on Monday evening. H. T. H. Hayward in the chair. H. G. Bennett, secretary, reported seven general meetings and three executive meetings had been held during the year. Mr. Hayward was unanimously elected president, other officers being: First vice-president, D. B. F. Bullen; second vice-president, Mrs. W. Smith; third vice-president, Milton (man); secretary, H. C. C. Bennett; executive committee, Mrs. D. B. F. Bullen, Mrs. H. C. C. Bennett, Messrs. A. Ross, A. G. Mackie and William Simpson. The president thanked the women's Auxiliary for assistance in the services to the association. The provincial Public Works Department will be asked to improve the highway at Langford Lakeside. Refreshments are served by members of the women's Auxiliary.

The Victoria Girls' Band will hold a picnic and dance on Saturday evening at Langford Lakeside. There will be attractive vaudeville entertainment and special dance features.

Miss Barbara Haycroft is staying at the home of Miss A. M. McKie. J. E. Jeffery, director, and A. Noman, delegate, of the Belmont egg roll, are in New Westminster attending the conference of the British Columbia Egg and Poultry Co-operative association.

Brentwood

The Ward Six Conservative Association held a card party on Saturday evening. Prize winners were: First, Mrs. E. Sutton, and E. T. Lawrie; second, W. O. Wallace and A. J. Guy; third, E. Cruise and Mr. Tait.

The Sluggish Memorial Young People's Society will meet on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Sluggish Memorial Church. Mr. Masters will speak.

The West Saanich Women's Institute will hold a card party on Wednesday evening, at the Institute Hall, Brentwood.

Professionally Perfect Finger Waves at Home

New French Method.
No stickiness, gumminess or white deposit on hair.

HERE'S a unique French discovery that makes it possible to finger wave your hair at home with professional results. The only way known, experts say, that is not gummy and sticky to use. That does not leave a white flaky deposit on hair and scalp. That is not affected by dampness or rain.

It is an exquisite liquid that's as easy to use as a tonic. That makes waving your own hair easier than it used to be using old-fashioned curlers. Full directions, carefully worked out by French hair dressers, come with every bottle. They show you exactly how to use it through wonderfully simplified charts.

Thus, you're assured of perfect results every time. Deep, natural finger waves no matter how straight your hair may be. Waves that often hold perfectly as long as two full weeks. It is called Jo-eur Waves and is sold at all toilet counters. Economical to use—a month's supply costs only a few cents. Approved and tested by the Good Housekeeping Magazine Bureau.

St. John's A.Y.P.A. To Debate Question Of Disarmament

St. John's A.Y.P.A. held a business meeting and debate Monday evening in the A.Y.P.A. room. Mr. Edmondson, a leader of A.Y.P.A. in Ontario, is expected in the city next Monday, and will be asked to attend St. John's A.Y.P.A. meeting next Monday evening. A very interesting debate is to take place at this meeting. "Resolved That Total Disarmament Would Be a Benefit to Mankind." The debaters will be H. Macmillan, E. Hooper, affirmative, and J. Laver and Bosworth, negative. John Homer acted as chairman and S. C. Hawkins as judge of the debate held Monday. The subject, "Resolved That Motion Pictures Are More Harmful Than Beneficial," was well and ably debated by H. Bowden and J. Macdonald, affirmative, and G. Jeeves and R. Macdonald, negative. While Mr. Hawkins considered the matter the debate was opened for discussion. The decision was given to the negative. Mr. Hawkins gave a few well-chosen criticisms on the debate. Refreshments served by Margaret Dalby and Lenora Trickett, brought the evening to a close.

SUGGEST POOLING ALL RESOURCES OF RELIEF WORK

F. E. Winslow Heads Interim Committee to Consider Central Bureau Scheme

Action Taken Following Address By Miss Charlotte Whitton Yesterday

For the purpose of taking preliminary steps towards the enlistment of a representative committee to make an assessment of all local activities and facilities for welfare work with a view to the co-ordination and correlation of voluntary and public effort to ensure the most effective assistance to the needy, an interim committee, including F. E. Winslow, Sir Richard Lake, Dean Quinlan, Rev. F. E. Church, Fred Landsberg and Reeve William Crouch, was appointed yesterday noon.

The appointment of the committee was the outcome of the address given by Miss Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa at a luncheon held at Spencer's under the auspices of the Social Service League. Her subject was "Community Organization for Relief and Assistance."

IS AGGRAVATION OF NORMAL CONDITION

After reviewing conditions in Canada, Miss Whitton said that the present unemployment situation was not a new phase, but was an aggravation of a situation which existed every winter. By December or January every year about 10 per cent of the population were looking to social welfare agencies to tide them over the unemployed period; for economic conditions were such that many wage-earners were unable to provide adequate sustenance looking ahead to withstanding the pressure of abnormal times. Mechanization also reduced the number of employees in industry and agriculture, there being 100,000 less harvesters needed in the west this year owing to the increasing use of modern agricultural machinery, the speaker said.

Miss Whitton quoted these facts to lend point to her claim that the problem of assisting those in need must become the concern of the whole community, and that all private and public sources of relief must bend their united efforts to avoid the disaster of a same degree as public health and other technical services. It was essential to realize that families needed help for their material and their spiritual wants.

One must see the individual and the family as needing food and shelter, also against the whole background of what brought them to this situation, or much aid will be misapplied and much will fall of its purpose," she said.

CHARITY WITH DISCRETION

Summing up the whole matter of effective welfare work as "charity with discretion, in which service and relief are inseparable," Miss Whitton suggested that the most effective way to meet the present problem of dealing with those needing assistance was to pool all the resources of voluntary help and assistance and then work it out in relation to public sources of relief. A central welfare service might then be organized, bringing into its membership and control every possible agency, including women's organizations, church groups, service clubs, veterans' organizations, fraternal bodies and similar groups. All investigations of cases should come through the central bureau, but each group could carry out assistance along its own particular line. The pool would then work out with the civic authority the measure of responsibility for the giving of relief.

MUST SACRIFICE "FETTERED"

Dean Quinlan, in thanking the speaker, recalled that for some years abortive attempts had been made in Victoria to co-ordinate the many welfare activities and work along scientific but humane lines. "Perhaps the worst of the present pressure of present-day conditions, some of us may be prepared to sacrifice some of our pet predilections in a common cause," he observed.

The interim committee was then appointed to take preliminary steps to enlist the services of a much broader committee with a view to carrying out the suggested co-ordination of resources. Metropolitan W.M.S.—The September rally of the Women's Missionary Society of Metropolitan United Church was well attended on Monday afternoon. Mrs. W. H. Whitley, first vice-president, presided. A message of regret and sympathy was sent to Mrs. Oard reported for the finance board, and Mrs. A. Read for the strangers' department. Mrs. Lewis gave the quarterly statement of the Associate Helpers. The group convened by Mrs. Scott, arranged and conducted the programme. Mrs. T. Sharp led the devotions, and Mrs. McComb gave the Scripture reading. With Mrs. Geo. Bold as accompanist, Mrs. T. R. Bowden sang two delightful solos: "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and "Somebody." The articles were much appreciated. Rev. E. F. Church, the new pastor, gave the address, challenging the society to be his co-worker in enlarging the spiritual vision of the world's need. "Not in beauty alone but often in duty do we get our vision of the eternal." The appeal was a message of inspiration. The pastor gave the benediction after which all were invited to remain for refreshments and a social period to become acquainted with the new pastor and Mrs. Church.

CHRISTENING OF GOV.-GENERAL'S SON YESTERDAY

Sir Robt. Borden Proxy For King George at Ceremony in Ottawa

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 23.—Marked by the simple dignity of the Church of England ceremony, the christening of George St. Lawrence Meulitz, infant son of Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Bessborough, took place yesterday afternoon in Saint Bartholomew's Church in the shadow of Rideau Hall. The ceremony was performed by Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Ottawa, assisted by Rev. J. H. Dixon, rector of the little church where ever the Governor-General since Confederation has worshipped.

His Majesty was represented by Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden; Lady Clark, wife of Sir William Clark, stood for Mrs. Arthur James, Cotton House, Rugby; Hon. Mrs. Lascelles, wife of the private secretary to the Governor-General, stood for Mrs. Neville Flower, sister-in-law of His Excellency; and the child's elder brother, Lord Duncannon, for Lord Stanley, M.P.

BIG RECEPTION

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett represented the citizens of Canada at the ceremony. Members of the Cabinet, the Senate and the House of Commons who were in Ottawa, the diplomatic corps and representatives of the army, the navy and the air force were among the 276 guests in the church. A reception for 400 guests was held at Government House after the christening. The ceremony opened with the hymn, "Christ, Who Once Among Us as a Child Did Dwell." His Lordship the Bishop asked Sir Robert Borden, on behalf of His Majesty "Hath this child been already baptized or not?" and Sir Robert answered, "The Bishop read the prayers in the baptismal service, after which the minister read from the Gospel according to St. Mark. The Bishop read the exhortation and the congregation joined in the prayer of thanksgiving.

LADY CLARK'S PART

Sir Robert Borden and Lady Clark answered for the child, and Lady Clark gave the child into the hands of the Bishop for the pouring of water upon its brow, receiving it and handing it back to the nurse after the christening. After the Lord's prayer and exhortation to the godfathers and godmothers, the Bishop read the prayer of thanksgiving. The invited guests were: Mr. P. Toole, Mrs. J. A. Macdonald, Mrs. J. S. Plunkett, Miss Agnew, Mrs. Angus Campbell, Mrs. James Fletcher, Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Mrs. E. C. Hart, Mrs. W. H. Gee, Mrs. P. E. Corby, Mrs. Paul Green, Mrs. F. Calvert, Mrs. C. W. Bradshaw, Miss A. mothers, the congregation sang "I Love to Hear the Story Which Angel Voices Tell." After the Bishop pronounced the benediction the national anthem was sung. The congregation stood throughout the ceremony. The vice-regal party was met at the door of the church by the Bishop and the rector. After the singing of the opening hymn, the party moved up the aisle of the church to the font, which is situated at the opposite end from the altar. The party included Lord and Lady Bessborough, the two godfathers and godmothers, Lady Maira Fensholt and Lord Duncannon and a nurse carrying the infant. The group returned to their places in the front of the church after the child had been baptized. The infant was baptized in the font used for the christening of the infant son of the Earl and Countess of Dufferin. The same register used in the first vice-regal ceremony of this kind and the only other one held in this church, was also used.

B.C. WOMEN LEAD CANADA

Greater Number Strive For Culture Than in Any Other Province

British Columbia women generally acknowledged as leaders in Canada for beauty and charm, also lead in the culture obtained through higher education, according to interesting figures on university attendance, just received in Victoria.

The proportion of women attending universities of Canada, as a whole, amounts to a little over 26 per cent. In British Columbia forty out of every 100 university students are women. Ontario is the next province for the number of women seeking higher educational honors with a percentage of 35.5.

The place that women assume in university enrollment is noticeably higher in the western provinces than in the east. Throughout Canada, annually about 3,500 new male and 1,300 new female university graduates receive bachelor or higher degrees. Next to arts, science, letters and philosophy in which 1,020 women secured bachelor degrees last year, household science was next popular with women at universities, 126 taking the course.

WOMEN TELL OF PROFESSIONS

Canadian Press

Toronto, Sept. 23.—Dentistry appeals to a woman as much as does the making of fine embroidery. Dr. Arabella McCallum, dentist, declared at the luncheon given by the Trades and Professions Committee of the National Council of Women in the Women's Building at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Dr. McCallum said there was a parallel in dentistry and embroidery, in that the former required fine work in filling, in gold inlays and in matching teeth. She referred to the fact that the patron saint of dentistry was St. Apollonia, a woman, and she quoted the words of the dean of the Ontario Dental College that women students were particularly adept in this work. "The extraction of a tooth is a small matter; it is more important to have knowledge of knowing when a tooth should or should not be extracted," she said. Dr. McCallum remarked that three requirements of a woman dentist were physical strength, good eyesight and steady nerves.

Mrs. E. L. Gibbons spoke on style promotion, and urged Canadian women to recognize and value Canadian productions. "We are just six days from the Paris market, and it will be a matter of pride to see a Canadian label in a hat instead of a Parisian mark."

One of the most pleasant but none the less backbreaking and wearisome professions, was represented by Miss M. E. Blacklock of Meadowvale, who finds her world's work in a ten-acre flower garden. "Having a finger in Mother Nature's pie," said Miss Blacklock, "is one of the most satisfactory professions."

WOMEN'S DRESS TO-DAY HEALTHY

But Sir Thos. Oliver Says Men's Clothing Unhygienic

London, Sept. 23.—Sir Thomas Oliver, president of the Institute of Hygiene, commended the modern dress of women in a speech at Leithworth. On the other hand, he said, men were certainly overladen, and compared with women, their clothing was cumbersome, heavy and unhygienic. Sir Thomas was addressing the conference of British corsetiers, and he said that women did not dress specially to attract the opposite sex, but largely to compete with each other.

"Taken altogether," he added, "there is much in the modern dress of women to commend it from a health point of view as well as the aesthetic. But there is nothing attractive about male attire; in fact for men, the day of elegance in dress and of dandyism has gone, and with it much of the courtly manners of an age that is past."

In spite of the dress reform party, Sir Thomas said he did not observe in men any evidence of a great desire to change their clothing, but it was not so long since women's dress, with its numerous petticoats, was equally heavy and unhealthy. Experience had taught, he said, that the change in women's dress was in the right direction.

"The tendency to colds on the chest have disappeared and young women had become healthier and stronger. Such maladies as anaemia and chlorosis, so prevalent in young women of forty years ago, had practically disappeared, while fainting in public assemblies and at balls was now out of date."

In a series of American tests in a particularly warm June, the average weight of the men's clothing was found to be eight pounds six ounces, compared with the women's average of two pounds ten ounces.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDER

SLEEPING HABITS DEPEND UPON GOOD FEEDING

Milk formulas need strengthening every time the baby gains a pound in weight. Even if the baby has previously been satisfied, the formula needs alteration when baby becomes irritable and is unable to sleep well.

Mrs. G. G. Q. complains that her baby no longer takes his usual long morning nap, and cannot go to sleep until as late as 9 p.m. She continues, "My baby is four and one-half months old, weighs fourteen and one-half pounds. He used to go to bed at 9 a.m. for a three-hour nap, but now he wakes two or three times during that period."

"Also, if I put him to bed at 8:30 p.m. he will cry for three or four hours, but if I put him down at 9 p.m. he will waken only once or twice at night. He does not seem to be hungry when he is awake. Can you give me any suggestions?"

CHECK WITH YOUR SCHEDULE

Your problem would have been simpler if you had told me of what the baby's formula consists. He should get something like this: Twenty-one to twenty-eight ounces of boiled cow's milk. To this add one and one-half ounces of sugar, or corn syrup, with enough boiled water to make five eight-ounce feedings. Does your formula compare favorably with this?

He should be fed every day at 6, 10, 2, 6, and have only one night feeding any time between 6 and 12 p.m. If he stays awake after his early morning feeding possibly he catnaps between 7 and 8 o'clock. At 9 o'clock he should have his orange juice, followed by his bath and his 10 o'clock bottle. His long morning nap should last from 10:30 until near 2 o'clock.

Take him outdoors for an airing from 2:30 until 4 o'clock. After he comes in the house undress him and give him an airing on the bed minus his clothes. After a quick sponge bath and his bottle he is again ready for bed.

I shall be happy to send you "Schedule For Baby's Day" and "Sweet Milk Formulae" if you will send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for them. These leaflets should get you on the right track. Don't forget that in September babies begin getting their daily doses of cod liver oil as a preventive of rickets. Four small doses, one after each of the four daytime bottles, is considered the desirable way to give this. Cereal may be started at this age, too.

PLAY PROBLEM

Mrs. L. N. C. you will have to manage this situation yourself. A boy of twenty-one months is not a suitable playmate for a boy of three and one-half years. The divergence in ages is too great and the older boy will take unfair advantage of the younger. Let the little girl and your boy play together, and include the older child so long as he plays fairly. When he does not, be nice to him but send him home. If this happens often enough, he will know how to act to prevent being isolated.

Victoria Delegates Report at New Westminster Convention

Canadian Press

New Westminster, B.C., Sept. 23.—With delegates in attendance from all parts of the province, the forty-eighth annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of British Columbia opened in Olivet Baptist Church here yesterday with the president, Mrs. J. A. Gillespie presiding.

The opening session was mainly taken up with services, roll call, report of the executive committee, appointments of committees, officers' and departmental reports.

At the afternoon's session, Mrs. C. C. Spofford of Victoria reported on the provincial W.C.T.U. Home, and Mrs. Gillespie delivered the presidential address, referring to difficulties and successes in the various branches. Mrs. Gillespie gave details and figures of how government liquor sales are conducted in the different provinces, and the amount of money realized therefrom.

During the educational hour, Mrs. J. Lade, L.T.O. secretary, chose as her subject, "Watchmen, What of the Night?" and Mrs. Shoemaker spoke on "Need of Parental Education."

In the evening a banquet was held in the hall, at which Mrs. W. Butcher, president of the local W.C.T.U., presided.

Speakers included Mayor A. Wells Gray of New Westminster, and Mrs. Wilkinson of Victoria.

This morning departmental reports were presented by conveners. The report of the plan of work committee was to be given this afternoon, followed by that of the jubilee committee, and of the world convention by Mrs. J. A. Gillespie. The speaker will be Rev. R. J. McIntyre.

Inky brown and off-black shades of hose are preferred with fall costumes.

Pro Baseball May Reappear in Victoria

Two Other Salaried Clubs in This City Have Proven Failures

Population in Victoria Hardly Large Enough

No High-priced Amateurs Will Make Debut in N.H.L. This Season

A REPORT emanating from Philadelphia tells of plans to introduce pro baseball in Victoria and Vancouver by the New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics. It makes interesting reading and many fans hope the proposed materializations. The two major league clubs are reported ready to finance franchises in the new class D circuit being organized by the Pacific Coast League. Pro baseball was sponsored in Victoria and Vancouver on two other occasions, but failed to draw the necessary support to make such a venture a financial success.

As a matter of fact, Pacific Coast League officials have been watching Vancouver with the idea of placing a team there for several years. On a couple of occasions Coast League clubs sent representatives to Vancouver to make arrangements to introduce the pro game there again, but after looking over the ground, the plan collapsed, mainly because the money who were going to put up the money could get no concrete assurances that it would come back through gate receipts. Vancouver fans are at present witnessing a first class brand of ball provided by senior amateur clubs, and the proposed pro league might not provide much better ball.

The big drawback to pro baseball in Victoria is that there is not sufficient population from which to draw. With a pro club playing at home for an entire week at a time it would take a lot of fans to provide the gates necessary to finance the club.

Victoria has boasted two pro ball outfits, having a team in the old Northwest League, which operated before the Great War, and another in the Pacific International League. Neither of these teams made a penny, while Vancouver clubs in the same league found it a tough proposition to make both ends meet. Many local fans will remember the Victoria team in the Northwest League which boasted such well-known stars as Johnny Rawlings, George Kelly, who later starred in the major leagues with the New York Giants, Victoria's team in the Pacific International League was managed by Bill Leard, while Tealy Raymond, now a resident of Bellingham, was pilot of the Yakima club. The games in Victoria were staged in the old stadium located on the present site of the Crystal Palace. These clubs played a good brand of ball, but the gates were not big enough.

Of course, with night baseball now the fashion the clubs would possibly be able to draw larger gates than previously, but even with this advantage it is extremely doubtful if they could operate at a profit. However, if it goes through, some of us will have the privilege of watching baseball of a fairly high standard.

One thing about the National Hockey League this year is that no highly touted stars will be coming up from the amateur ranks. A few years ago when the Varsity Grade, Toronto Granites, Soo Greyhounds, and other top line teams were holding forth, there was a great scramble to obtain the services of young stars, with the result that some of them went up to the big time at an exorbitant price. The hockey flourished for a while, but it didn't work out so well, and the clubs are now developing players from farms and from minor league pro clubs.

The success of Boston in drawing players from minor league clubs, the manner in which the Montreal Canadiens made dependable players out of rookies whom they dropped in the first season, and the results achieved by constant play, the results achieved in a like manner by Toronto Maple Leafs, and the apparent benefit that Montreal Maroons are to derive from their club at Windsor, has changed the old idea. The amateurs coming into the N.H.L. now, for the most part, are dropped into a minor circuit for at least a year's seasoning.

Cards to Split Series Winnings In Thirty Shares

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 23.—The Cardinals, 1931 National League champions, held a meeting and voted to split into thirty equal shares their winnings in the coming world series with Philadelphia Athletics, title winners in the American League.

Each of the twenty-five players, Manager "Gabby" Street, Secretary Clarence Lloyd, Coach Clyde Wares, Trainer Harrison Waver and Assistant Trainer Kirby Samuels, will come in for one-thirtieth of the team "take," which will be either 60 or 40 per cent of the competing team's pot from receipts of the first four series games. The team winning the world championship gets the 60 per cent share.

The players also voted $500 to Groundkeeper Bill Stockelck.

Last Year's Teams Probable Starters Again, President Albert Hewison Announces; Meeting of League Will Be Held To-morrow Evening; Navy Made Clean-up of Trophies Last Season, Including League Championship; Mid-weekers Look for Another Successful Season

Last year's four clubs, the Navy, Garrison, Hudson's Bay and Saanich United, are expected to operate teams again this year in the Wednesday Football League. Albert Hewison, president of the circuit, stated to-day that all four teams were practically certain starters and that he looked for another successful season for the mid-week elevens. Whether any new clubs will seek entry is not yet known.

DR. SARPOLIS WILL RETURN ON SATURDAY

Famous Flying Scissors Expert Meets Joe Devito on Local Wrestling Card

"Rocky" Brooks in Semi-windup; Bob Kruse Wins Over Felice in California

Dr. Karl Sarpolis, famous exponent of the flying scissors, and one of the leading heavyweight wrestlers to-day, will make his return to Victoria on Saturday, when he opposes Joe Devito, New York grappler, in the eight ten-minute round main event of the card being offered at the Tillamook Club gymnasium, Broad Street. In the five-round semi-windup "Rocky" Brooks, Victoria, has been matched with Harold Rumburg.

Sarpolis is making his return after an absence of about nine months and during that time he has scored a number of brilliant victories in California rings. He has been featured at numerous shows in Los Angeles and San Francisco and has beaten such prominent grapplers as Ed Marshall, originator of the airplane spin, Tony Pelice, New York, and many others. Sarpolis has engaged in three or four matches with "Strangler" Lewis since his last appearance here, and although he has never been able to defeat the headlock expert Sarpolis has given him many tough matches.

Sarpolis has always proved a popular grappler with Victoria fans. A wonderfully-built man he is known as one of the best-looking wrestlers in the game. According to an announcement to-day Sarpolis intends to spend the winter in the Pacific northwest so that local fans will no doubt see him in several bouts.

Devito is one of the best heavyweights taking part in matches at New York, Boston and Chicago. He has been in the top parts for the last month and has scored several victories over first-class mat men.

The first bout will get under way at 8:45 o'clock.

San Francisco, Sept. 23.—Bob Kruse, Portland wrestler, yesterday evening defeated Tony Pelice, New York, here yesterday evening, in which the referee played an active part. Pelice took the first fall in nineteen minutes with a headlock. Kruse won the second in nine minutes with a body slam after throwing Pelice out of the ring several times. Both wrestlers did considerable slugging and it was only after the referee also got in a few swings that they decided to resume wrestling. Kruse easily won the deciding fall in two minutes with a double wristlock. Kruse weighed 198, Pelice 220.

Baltimore, Sept. 23.—Jim London, heavyweight wrestler, yesterday evening defeated Paul Jones, Houston, Texas, in thirty-two minutes with headlock. London weighed 205 and Jones 208.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 23.—Earl McCready, Oklahoma wrestler, yesterday evening defeated John Maxon, Greece. Two hours after the accident, he had failed to recover consciousness. McCready was injured when Maxon upended an airplane wheel and slammed him to the floor.

New York, Sept. 23.—Kola Kwariani, Russian heavyweight wrestler, tossed Tommy Drask, Germany, in 13 minutes 35 seconds of their match at the New York Coliseum yesterday evening. Kwariani weighed 216 pounds; Drask 210.

Herb Freeman, 220, New York and Steve Zmouk, 215, Poland, drew in thirty minutes as did Hans Steinkne, 240, Germany, and Gino Garibaldi, 205, Italy.

Lawn Bowling

Defeating George Raby's team 23 to 14, Dave Dewar's rink captured the Veterans' Shield of the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club in the final game.

Individual prizes were presented to the different members of the winning rink by J. E. Day.

The teams, along with scores, follow:

D. H. Riddell	A. Read
J. E. Day	J. U. Gordon
P. Guy	M. Phillips
George Raby	D. Dewar
skip 14	skip 23
James Munro overcame Walter Armstrong in the semi-final of the club's handicap singles and meets A. J. Wilson in the final.

Max Schmeling To Meet Walker and Then Dempsey Declares Manager Jacobs

Paris, Sept. 23.—Joe Jacobs, United States manager of Max Schmeling, world heavyweight boxing champion, said to-day that Schmeling would sail in November for the U.S. to make an exhibition tour and that he would fight Mickey Walker either in Miami or Los Angeles in February.

Jacobs said Schmeling then would take on Jack Dempsey in June at a place to be picked later.

Jacobs said he was sure Gene Tunney, who retired undefeated in 1927, was returning to the ring and that "we'll accommodate him."

Loughran Rallies To Defeat Sekyra

Philadelphia Heavyweight Contender Finds Trouble Busting Dayton Trial Horse

Heavy Right to Jaw in Seventh Hurts Tommy; Retzlaff Scores Thirty-second K.O.

New York, Sept. 23.—Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia heavyweight contender, has found his fifth straight victory the most difficult.

With easy victories over Max Baer, Ernie Schaaf, Tuffy Griffiths and Victor Campolo just behind him, Tommy found himself up against the Dayton, Ohio, trial horse, Joe Sekyra, in the Queensboro stadium yesterday.

In the Queensboro stadium yesterday Loughran and Sekyra fought a close battle on points in ten rounds.

Sekyra, who whipped Charley Retzlaff in his last start here, made an aggressive fight and hurt Loughran badly in the seventh round with a heavy right to the jaw. Tommy finished fast, however, to win the ninth and tenth rounds, and with them the decision, Loughran weighed 183, Sekyra 177.

Retzlaff stopped the German heavyweight, Dick Onken, in the second round of the ten-round semi-final.

Retzlaff took most of the first round to get warmed up, but he had the German reeling under a couple of hard rights just before the bell. In the second round Onken absorbed terrific punishment. He was staggering around the ring under a volley of rights when the referee decided he had had enough. It was Retzlaff's thirty-second victory by knockout in thirty-seven starts.

In five-round bouts Jake Warren, New York, 197, stopped Vincent Duncan, Kalamazoo, Mich., 180, in the second minute of the fourth round, and Ray Impeleteri, Cold Springs, N.H., 263, knocked out Frank Levette, Summerville, N.J., 213½, in one minute of the second round.

Ralph Wilson Is New President Of Alberta Amateurs

Wetaskiwin, Alta., Sept. 23.—Lethbridge was chosen as the city for the next annual meeting of the Alberta branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada at its annual gathering here yesterday.

Ralph Wilson, Calgary, was chosen president; Rev. A. D. Richard, Edmonton, first vice-president; C. E. Payne, K. C. R. Cruikshank, M.L.A., Hillcrest, third vice-president; and R. W. Bellamy, Wetaskiwin, secretary-treasurer.

Edmonton, Calgary and Cardston were selected as points for the amateur district boxing eliminations and the finals will be held at Edmonton.

Bismarck Amateur Athletic Association was sanctioned to hold a junior track and field championship meet in 1932.

Judge J. A. Jackson, Lethbridge; Ralph Wilson, Calgary; and R. W. Bellamy, Wetaskiwin, were chosen delegates to the annual meeting of the National Convention in Winnipeg.

Five Straight Wins Will Give Athletics Division of Record

Connie Mack's Club With 105 Victories to Their Credit This Season Can Tie American League Mark by Taking All Their Remaining Fixtures; Have Won More Games Than Any Other Philadelphia Club Has Ever Done Before; Washington Regains Second Place as Yankees Are Idle

With one game left to-day before the year's interseasonal play in the major league ends, the last east-west series in the big circuits has merely proved what the earlier ones indicated. The eastern clubs of the American League and the western teams of the National, which have outshone their rivals from the other sections all year, wound up with the most thorough triumph yet.

Playing on the home grounds of the strongest sections, the American League's eastern half won forty games and lost only fourteen, while the westerners of the National League turned in thirty-eight triumphs to eighteen defeats. The Chicago Cubs, which had lost nine straight games, made the most individual showing. They won seven games and lost only two. Boston, Philadelphia and New York shared the American League honors, the Red Sox winning eleven games and losing four, and the A's and Yankees each recording ten victories to three defeats.

When they closed their interseasonal stand with an 8 to 6 victory over Detroit yesterday, the Athletics accomplished a feat that no other Philadelphia club ever had done before. It was their 105th victory of the season, more than the great A's of 1929 could win with all seasons. They still have five games left, and the possibility of tying the American League record of 110 victories.

George Earnshaw, who won his twenty-first game of the year, and Roy Mahaffey, gave the champions some wobbly pitching, but three Detroiters more than made up the difference by issuing thirteen walks. Jimmy Foy started the A's off with a lead that never was overcome when he hit his thirtieth homer of the season with two on in the first inning.

Washington snatched the opportunity offered by an open date in the New York schedule, and took undisputed possession of second place in the standing with a 7 to 2 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Six runs in the first inning on five hits off Faber and Thomas, plus an error and a walk settled the game.

Boston's great spurt was checked in the last inning of a battle with St. Louis, but the Red Sox managed to hold on to fifth place. Leading 2 to 0 going into the ninth, Milt Gaston weakened, the Sox committed two errors and Wilcy Moore, who was tossed into the breach, could not get the side out until five runs had crossed the plate to give the Browns a 5 to 2 victory.

HUGHES GAINS THIRD ROUND IN NET PLAY

English Davis Cup Tennis Star Beats Hugh McArthur in Los Angeles Event

Sidney Wood and E. Vines Advance; Keen Matches in Doubles Competition

Los Angeles, Sept. 23.—George Hughes, English Davis Cup star, advanced to the third round of play in the Pacific Southwest tennis championships yesterday by eliminating Hugh McArthur, San Diego, 7-5, 8-10, 6-3.

In the other two matches of ranking seeded players, Sidney Wood, New York, defeated Leonard Patterson, Pasadena, 8-10, 6-1, 6-1, and Ellsworth Vines, defending champion, trounced Phil Castlen, Glendale, 6-0, 6-1.

In the doubles, Hughes teamed with Dorothy Cruikshank, Santa Ana, forced Vines and Helen Marlowe, Los Angeles, to three sets before conceding the match, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2.

FERRY AND PARTNER LOSE

Mr. and Mrs. John Van Ryn defeated Gregory Mangin, Newark, N.J., and Dorothy Workman, Del Monte, 6-2, 6-0. Fred Perry, Hughes's Davis Cup partner, and Ruby Bishop, Pasadena, went down before Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, and Edith Cross, San Francisco, 6-3, 6-3, in a hard match.

Ernie Schaaf To Battle Griffiths Over Ten Rounds

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 23.—The answer to Ernie Schaaf's stirring knockout victory march through the United States heavyweight ranks may be heard at the Chicago Stadium to-night when he stacks his new reputation against Gerald Ambrose "Tuffy" Griffith in a ten-round battle.

BOWLING GREENKEEPERS TO PLAY GOLF

Annual Tournament of Victoria Group at Macaulay Point Links October 6

A. C. Smith and I. Riddell, of the Victoria Golf Club, champion and handicap champion, respectively, of the Victoria Golf Greenkeepers' Association, will defend the laurels they won last year in their 1931 tournament at the Macaulay Point course on October 6.

About thirty fellow greenkeepers are expected to enter the tournament, which will be over thirty-six holes, medal play.

The player turning in the lowest gross score will receive the C. F. Todd medal, while the handicap champion will be awarded the J. A. Sayward trophy.

Royal Colwood, George Vale, Macaulay Point, Uplands, and Victoria club ground staffs will be represented. In the same tournament the different club representatives will compete for the Interclub Shield, at present held by the Uplands men for the team turning in the best score.

Competition For Junior Members At Uplands Club

A competition for the junior members will be staged at the Uplands Golf Club on Saturday morning. Secretary John Cavan announced to-day. The event will be medal play with full handicap allowance.

LOOK FOR GOOD SUNDAY SCHOOL HOOP LEAGUE

Church Basketball Teams Send Delegates to Meeting at "Y" Wednesday

Between Twenty and Thirty Teams Expected to Enter Divisions This Year

Between twenty and thirty teams from churches all over the city are expected to send representatives to the organization meeting of the Sunday School Basketball League in the Y.M.C.A. next Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock. It was announced in a memo from the secretary, the hoop to-day.

Indications so far point to a big season in this division. Teams which played last year are expected to turn to competition and promise to improve the grade of basketball in it in former seasons.

This year the Royals, intermed "B" boys, city champions, who represented First United last season, be broken up. While the loss of team will doubtless be felt, it will be others in this class a better chance of securing the title. The Royals c. the junior class after had won the city and provincial in that section and swept through intermediate "B" class in 1930 1931.

The two other championship teams from First United, the Live Wires Orioles, junior girls and intermed "B" girls, city titleholders, are expected to enter the league. One of the veterans, Bob Whyte, a team played a high brand of ball last year and promised to do even more improvement in coming seasons.

The Christ Church Pirates, juvenile city titleholders, swept metrically across the horizon in division. The squad is already in the game, probably more up to the intermediate division this year. At the meeting next Wednesday delegates are expected to indicate many teams their churches will enter the game. Arrangements of schedules will also be discussed.

Last year the Sunday school boys were followed with keen interest by large number of basketball fans. Teams furnished some first-class candidates for city league squads and expected to have as many good ones this year as they had in former seasons.

Bellingham Kiwanis Retain Golf Trophy

Bellingham, Wash., Sept. 23.—Bellingham Kiwanis Club golf retained possession of the Morris International Kiwanis Golf cup yesterday by defeating a team from the Vancouver club, 8½ to 6½.

MARY BLAKE SPEAKING

COULD YOU SAY AS MUCH AT SEVENTEEN?

I had a letter the other day from Mildred A., which I must share with you. For any mother, I know, she would be proud of such a daughter. She says: "I am only seventeen years old, but I have had to cook for five years, as my mother is an invalid and I am the only girl."

"I am taking a home economics course as I thought that would do me more good than anything else. I wish you would send me home economics teacher your cook book. I know she will be delighted to have it—as will the girls in my cooking class. I have used Carnation Milk for several years and I will never be without it if I can help."

Isn't that a wonderful endorsement from a girl so capable and so sensible? She has learned very early the cooking wisdom which women everywhere are discovering—that Carnation Milk gives cooking results that even the best of bottled milk cannot equal, and with a dependability, convenience and economy offered by milk in no other form.

Carnation Milk is simply pure whole milk protected at the source. It comes from clean herds, housed in clean barns, milked by clean hands into clean utensils. This safeguarded milk is evaporated to double creaminess, sterilized for safekeeping and "homogenized" so that the cream particles are minutely fine and distributed through every drop. As a result, everything in which Carnation Milk is used is extraordinarily fine of texture and rich with creamy goodness.

Below is a Carnation recipe I want you to try. Send, too, for the free Carnation Cook Book and Baby Feeding Book to Carnation Co., Limited, 134 Abbott St., Vancouver, B.C.

Carnation Cherry Coconut Pudding— $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cornstarch, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar, $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt, 1 cup water, 1 cup Carnation Milk, $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. vanilla, 2 tbsp. cherry juice, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sliced maraschino cherries, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup coconut, 2 egg whites. Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cold water. Dilute Carnation with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water and scald; add the cornstarch mixture slowly to the scalded milk. Cook in a double boiler for 20 minutes, stirring constantly until thickened. Add vanilla, cherry juice, cherries, coconut and stiffly beaten egg whites. Chill. Garnish with cherries. Serves 6.

USE THE SAFEGUARDED MILK

For unusual richness, unique smoothness of texture and completely dependable results, use Carnation Milk in all your cooking. Doubly rich in cream, it is most economical. Carnation Milk is safeguarded at the source by clean housing of clean herds and clean handling of the milk. And this protection continues until it finally reaches you in the hermetically sealed container. (See recipe above.)

"FROM CONTENTED COWS"

AUSTRALIAN GOODS DISPLAYED HERE

Indicating the possibilities of greater trade between Canada and Australia, the above exhibit was displayed in the store of David Spencer Limited last Friday and Saturday. The products represent goods purchased with money from sales of lumber and salmon in Australia. Chief among them are corned beef, corned mutton, lunch tongues, ox tongues, rabbits, chicken, canned fruits, fresh oranges and lemons, butter and cheese. All were packed in boxes supplied to Australia by British Columbia. The placard in the centre of the display states that while Canada exported $17,000,000 worth of goods to Australia last year, imports amounted to only $4,000,000. It urges Canadians to show a preference for Australian goods if they expect a beneficial arrangement with that land. All goods shown in the display are proving popular with consumers in Victoria and the rest of the Province.

AT THE THEATRES

DOMINION THEATRE

Revolutionary and novel in the history of moving picture filming was Ernst Lubitsch's method of recording the famous dual scene for Maurice Chevalier's new lyrical romance, "The Smiling Lieutenant," now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

The sequence of the picture is the one in which Miriam Hopkins, as the princess, describes her affection for her new husband, while, at the same moment, Chevalier, the husband, in another scene, makes love to Claudette Colbert.

Both episodes were "shot" at the same time. The contrasting settings were placed at opposite ends of a large stage. In the middle of the stage, two cameras, mounted back to back, worked simultaneously, while an orchestra of thirty-one pieces set the pace for the action.

The advantages of the Lubitsch method are: The music continues its rhythmic flow, unaltered by the cutters' interruptions; "shooting" time is saved by making two scenes at once; the action of the scene is more rapid and natural than could have been caught separately and later pieced together.

CAPITOL THEATRE

"Chances," the First National war romance starring Douglas Fairbanks Jr., now at the Capitol Theatre, is an adaptation of the novel of the celebrated A. Hamilton Gibbs. It has to do with the adventures of two British soldier-brothers, who live the same girl.

The dialogue must necessarily contain a lot of English, to make the conversation authentic. First National secured the services of Captain J. S. Scott, who saw active service during the World War. "Chances" will be as acceptable to British audiences as though the picture had been filmed in Merrie England.

The thrilling romance is the first starring vehicle of Douglas Fairbanks Jr. He is supported by Rose Hobart, Anthony Bushell, Holmes Herbert.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

No more colorful place exists on earth than a motion picture studio, and during the filming of "King of Jazz," the super-musical spectacle starring Paul Whiteman and his band, which is now playing at the Columbia Theatre, the Universal lot was ablaze with romantic costumes used in the picture. There were wedding gowns, ballet costumes, Spanish, Italian, German, English, French, Scotch, Irish and many other national regalia.

Mickey and Randall, a pair of clever vaudeville artists, add zest to the Columbia bill this week. They show plenty of versatility, including in their repertoire duets, instrumental items, dancing and a fund of amusing gags. Their act is being received with much laughter and applause.

COLISEUM THEATRE

After a long and arduous search among the young talent of the screen for a suitable actor to portray the important part of one of the two officers round whom the story of "The Isle of Dreams" now showing at the Coliseum turns, Anthony Asquith finally discovered Tony Bruce. A sub-lieutenant in the navy, who was undergoing a gunnery course at Whale Island, Bruce.

who had always had an inclination towards acting, immediately resigned when the part was offered to him as to temporarily forsake the New York navy and in which Bruce took part in the film were familiar to him, for he served with the Mediterranean fleet as Laura Merrick, the British wife, whose Elizabeth during the bombardment and landing on the peninsula.

BILLIE BURKE HERE MONDAY

Famous Actress Has Ideal Role in "The Vinegar Tree" Coming to Royal Victoria

There is every indication that Billie Burke will face a large audience next Monday night when she begins a two-day engagement at the Royal Victoria Theatre in "The Vinegar Tree." Miss Burke, one of the most accomplished and fascinating comedienne, has not been seen on the Pacific Coast for several years and it was only the strong persuasive powers of Messrs. Belasco and Curran that induced her to temporarily forsake the New York territory. It is fortunate Miss Burke was seen in "The Vinegar Tree," for it was one of the pronounced hits in New York last season and is said to provide the vivacious actress with the best role she has had in a long time.

In "The Vinegar Tree" she appears as Laura Merrick, the British wife, whose craving for romance is such that it causes her to even imagine love affairs for herself. Her husband, wholly unappreciative of the wife's romanticism attempts to feed her platitudes instead of soft speeches and her flighty ineptitudes are productive of no end of extremely ludicrous situations. Miss Burke romps through three acts of delightful comedy and "The Vinegar Tree" becomes a veritable laugh furore. Belasco and Curran have surrounded the star with a fine supporting company. The cast includes John Marston, William Morris, Frances Woodbury, Julie Dillon, Charles Barton and Harry C. Bradley.

COMING TO PLAYHOUSE

The G. Donald Gray Stock Company will have its Victoria premiere at the Playhouse Theatre with Chauncey Olcott's "Isle of Dreams" Monday evening. The company will open an engagement that it is hoped will last throughout the winter months. With such a fine production as its first offering, the company is bound to prove popular with local theatre patrons.

"The Isle of Dreams" is a whimsical play, full of simple charm, with a delightful theme and an entertaining and interesting plot. Throughout the play will be interspersed Irish musical gems. Donald Gray himself, the possessor of a fine baritone voice, will handle the musical part of the show and among the numbers he will sing as solos will be "Mother Machree," "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "Macushla" and the theme song, "The Isle of Dreams."

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Albert Conti, who plays the role of manager of a successful and temperamental prima donna, played by Jeanette MacDonald in "Oh for a Man" was an officer in the Fifth Hussar Regiment, Austro-Hungarian Army. "Oh for a Man" is the rather novel story of a romantic romance between a burlesque and a prima donna, was directed by Hamilton MacFadden. Reginald Denny plays the burlesque in this picture now showing at the Playhouse Theatre.

MAKES SOUR STOMACHS SWEET

In Five Short Minutes—Cannot Beat Bisurated Magnesia to End Indigestion—Gas!

When your stomach burns with gas and the sour acid indigestion of fermented foods—just take a teaspoonful or two tablets of Bisurated Magnesia and quick and certain relief is yours! Folks whose stomachs—either chronically or just occasionally—won't perform properly, find in pure Bisurated Magnesia a safe, sensible, pleasant, economical and never failing means of avoiding all symptoms of indigestion or after-eating distress. They eat what they please and their digestive organs behave, because Bisurated Magnesia prevents the formation of the gas and excess acid that causes indigestion. Used either to prevent or to correct indigestion, you can't beat Bisurated Magnesia which is obtainable from any well stocked drugist in either tablet or powder form. Do not confuse with Milk or Citrate Magnesia, and be certain the Magnesia you take is Bisurated. The first trial proves its great value—try it to-day sure! (Adv.)

SAYS MARTIANS DEVELOPED RACE

Indication of Great Canals Evidence of Intelligent People, Lecturer Says

H. B. Bryden Gives Interesting Lecture on Planet to Round Table

The theory that Mars is inhabited by a people of intelligence as high, if not higher than those of this earth, was advanced yesterday evening by H. B. Bryden, in a highly interesting lecture on that planet before the Round Table Club at its first meeting of the winter series in the Empress Hotel.

The fact that conditions there, regarding seasons, were somewhat similar to those of the earth, such as the presence of apparently unnatural canals, was considered an indication that a civilization would exist on the planet.

DENSELY POPULATED

With slides secured from the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, shown by Dr. J. A. Pearce, the speaker pointed out markings, which he declared were canals. The fact that these were of phenomenal length, reaching upward to hundreds of miles, was an indication that the Martians were a highly developed people and that the planet was more densely populated than the earth. It was necessary in order to retain the water, which the speaker said, was scarce on Mars. A similar scarcity was predicted for the earth in the distant future.

Mr. Bryden declared observers believed there were no mountains of any note on Mars, since it was believed that planets had cooled more quickly than the earth and had never been subjected to such intense heat.

BELIEVE TO BE MAN MADE

Returning to his discussion of the canals, he stated the suggestion had been put forward that they were merely surface cracks. However, where surface cracks occurred on the earth, they were not in a straight line. The directness of those on Mars indicated that they were man-made.

Observations of Mars were made more difficult owing to the fact that it approached the earth very infrequently and at its closest was still 35,000,000 miles distant.

BUILDING OWN OBSERVATORY

Introducing the speaker, Dr. J. A. Pearce told the gathering of a privately owned modern observatory Mr. Bryden was having built here.

Mr. Bryden, formerly of Chicago, is now living on Oak Bay Avenue. He has taken up astronomy as a hobby and hopes to delve deeper into its mysteries with the new equipment he has in his observatory.

The plant is equipped with a four-inch telescope, driven by a clock, purchased from the A. F. Miller Company of Toronto; a star spectrograph, a solar spectrograph, a micrometer for measuring double stars and comets, and a sidereal chronometer. This is excellent equipment for an amateur observatory, according to Dr. Pearce, and will no doubt produce gratifying results when the plant is completed in the near future. Mr. Bryden will announce his amateur research work more thoroughly than at present.

ETHEL LUENING HEARD AT BANFF

Pleased Highland Gathering There; Long Beach Press Praises Her Voice

Ethel Codd Luening, lyric soprano, who will be heard in recital on Saturday evening in the Shrine Auditorium, has recently been heard in concerts at Banff, in connection with the Highland gathering and Scottish music festival. The Free-Press, speaking of her concert at Long Beach in January last, says: "Miss Luening possesses one of the most unusual soprano voices yet heard by Long Beach audiences. It has the warmth and resonance of a contralto voice combined with the soaring bird-notes of the soprano. Even in the highest registers, her voice did not lose its sweet, soothing mellow qualities. In the more difficult numbers, her voice trilled and danced with the ease of the notes in an extremely technical violin composition."

Otto Luening, who will accompany his wife at the piano, will play several flute obbligatos. Mr. Luening has played flute with Nikisch and Richard Strauss in Europe, and in addition is a musical director and composer.

Miss Luening has promised to sing some of the Scottish songs of the Hebrides, by the late Morrie Kennedy-Fraser; one group of songs being: "O Whistle and I'll Come to You," "Bonnie Wee Thing," and "The Laird o' Cockpen."

Chief Talks To Newsboys About Rules

Urges Lads to Co-operate in Campaign to Reduce Traffic Accidents.

Carrying the traffic campaign right home to some of those whom it affects directly, Chief of Police Thomas Healey yesterday spoke briefly to newsboys and carriers of The Times.

The chief explained to the boys the necessity of observing the traffic rules and asked for their co-operation. In the downtown areas especially, he pointed out, youths who made a practice of ignoring the regulations, darting here and there without regard for other vehicles formed a particular menace, not only to themselves but to the drivers of automobiles. Other lads who sell papers on foot were warned to be careful when crossing streets, the chief advising them to "stop, look and listen."

The registry lists show, he said, that 50,000 are registered as unemployed and 54,000 others are registered as their dependents. It is not reasonable to believe that 104,000 out of 600,000 people in the province are so destitute they will starve if not receiving help.

According to present plans between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 will be available for a six months' relief programme operating from now until next April, the minister said. Of this, the Provincial Government will provide about $3,000,000, the Federal Government about the same or a little more, and the municipalities the remainder. The total cannot be fixed definitely until

Over $7,000,000 To Be Spent For Relief

Government to Segregate Needy on List of 50,000. Now Registered

B.C. Programme Designed to Provide Six Months' Work For Total of 20,000 Men

While approximately 50,000 men are registered in British Columbia for unemployment relief, the Provincial Government does not believe anything like this number actually require work for maintenance, and steps will be taken to segregate those in need from others, Hon. J. W. Jones, Minister of Finance, announced.

BUSINESS MEN GET BEHIND "Y" APPLE DAY

Business men of Victoria, entering whole-heartedly into the spirit of Apple Day, the novel "tagging" stunt organized by the Y.M.C.A. in order to raise funds for the association, have been giving good support to the movement.

J. A. Watson, manager of the Hudson's Bay Company, has kindly consented to allow taggers to use a stall inside the store when the campaign starts on the morning of October 3.

The wide support given the move leads those in charge of it to look most enthusiastically towards a successful drive. Boys of the Y.M.C.A. have also promised their support for the move.

The money derived from the campaign will in no way be tied up. Forty-eight hours after the funds are collected from the Apple Day endeavor, the money will again be at its rounds through the merchants of the city to pay for supplies, repairs and labor. The success of the drive means help for many local earlies as well as assistance to the boys, whose welfare the association is promoting.

Tonics, Pep Panaceas Incapable Of Overcoming Body Fatigue

Man's Endurance Is Governed by Oxygen Intake

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Physiologists who have studied the problem of fatigue have made a significant contribution to the means for overcoming it. What the worker wants to do is to get as much done in a given time as possible, and at the same time to get it done with the least expenditure of energy. The using up of energy leads to fatigue, and continued fatigue, as has been pointed out, means ill health, inefficiency and discontent.

All sorts of panaceas for pep, punch and vitality have been offered with the claim that they overcome fatigue or prevent its development. Actually there is little or nothing that can be taken out of a bottle that will prevent fatigue.

Alcohol gives an impression of well-being that may cause the worker to put on more effort, but that is merely whipping up a tired horse. The same is true of coffee, which contains the drug caffeine that has the power to speed up the brain.

During the World War, reports were circulated regarding the promotion of muscular activity and the prevention of fatigue in both man and animals through the giving of sodium phosphate. Patent medicines based on this substance have appeared both in Germany and in this country. The investigations made by the United States Public Health Service showed that the only beneficial effect was the feeling of well-being that resulted from stimulation of the intestinal tract and the elimination of body wastes.

The endurance of a man is governed by two things: the greater the income of oxygen during exercise, the longer a man can go on, and the more severe exercise he can undertake. The greater the oxygen debt he can carry, the longer will he be able to keep up a certain effort.

The amount of oxygen that a man can take in depends naturally on the size of the man, on the capacity of his lungs, and on the rate at which his heart can pump the blood around. Apparently the limit of intake that the heart can handle is about four quarts of oxygen per minute. A man who can take in four quarts of oxygen a minute when breathing air can take in six quarts of oxygen when he breathes a mixture that is one-half oxygen. Hill asserts that a man who could run a mile in four minutes and fifteen seconds breathing air could do it under four minutes breathing oxygen.

This assertion is figured mathematically from a knowledge of the average capacity of human lungs and from the ability of a normal heart to circulate blood purified with oxygen. The figures have never been verified by actual experiment because the necessary oxygen would cost $500 and a special tunnel to contain it would have to be built for the runner.

OBITUARY

Funeral services will be held at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel to-morrow at 2 o'clock for Jean Fraser, wife of Alex. Fraser of Los Angeles, who passed away in the southern city on Saturday, Sept. 20. She was 62 years of age. Interment will be made in Royal Oak Burial Park. The late Mrs. Fraser was born in the province of Alberta. Besides her husband, she is survived by infant twin daughters, her father, one sister, Mrs. E. F. Barnes, of Victoria, and six brothers. She was the youngest daughter of James R. Cameron, of Vancouver, and the late Mrs. Cameron.

The funeral of Mrs. Virginia Jacqueline Butler will leave the family residence, Keating Cross Road, to-morrow morning at 9:30 o'clock, proceeding to the Church of the Assumption, West Saanich, where Rev. Father E. M. Schellen will conduct services at 10 o'clock.

The funeral of William H. Atkinson took place yesterday afternoon from McCall Bros' Funeral Home. Many friends attended and the casket was borne in the chapel with many beautiful flowers. Harold Barker conducted the service, during which the hymns "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "Rock of Ages" were sung. Interment was made in Royal Oak Burial Park, with the following as pallbearers: W. Wilson, J. Daniels, H. E. Munday, N. H. Caulfield, D. Donaldson and J. Leffer.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Charlotte Agnes Sheppard, who passed away in this city Monday, will be held Thursday afternoon, September 24, at 2 o'clock from the parlors of the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home, Rev. O. L. Jull will officiate and interment will be made in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

Had Resided In Victoria Over
Forty-seven Years

Mrs. Helen Larsen, widow of Gustave Larsen and a resident of Victoria for forty-seven years, passed away this morning at the residence, 2639 Prior Street, aged seventy-seven years. She was born in Ellerslie, Shropshire, England, and came to Canada fifty years ago. Mrs. Larsen leaves two daughters, Mrs. S. Berrow and Mrs. J. Johnstone, and a brother, William A. Rivers, all of Victoria, also five grandchildren. Funeral services will be held on Saturday at 2 o'clock at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, Rev. M. Bruce officiating. Interment will be made in the family plot in Ross Bay cemetery.

MRS. AMYOT DIES

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 23.—Mrs. J. A. Amyot, wife of Dr. J. Amyot, Deputy Minister of Health, died today, after a prolonged illness. She was sixty-seven years of age.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Garden City Choir will give a miscellaneous concert in the church at 8 o'clock on Friday night.

The National Unemployed Workers' Association will hold a dance and social on Saturday evening, commencing at 8 o'clock in St. Mark's Hall, Boleskine Road.

Sixty-nine parcels of logged-off government-owned land will be auctioned off at Abbotsford on Saturday. The land is in twenty-acre lots, and will sell at an upset price of about $10 an acre, the total area for sale being 1,380 acres.

A full attendance of the Rotary Club is called for the Empress Hotel to-morrow noon, when Major L. Bullock-Webster's dramatization of Frances Hodgson Burnett's novel, "The Secret Garden," will be read by students of the B.C. Dramatic School.

The first formal meeting of the market extension committee of the provincial cabinet will be held to-morrow when reports of the lumber, agriculture and fishing industries will be presented. Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Lands, Hon. Joshua Himelfarb, Minister of Education, and Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture, composed the committee.

Presentations of entrance certificates by Miss E. M. Parrott, president of the Quilts P.T.A. and addresses by Trustees P. E. George and A. B. McNeil, first principal of the school, featured the annual opening ceremonies of the Quilts P.T.A. school this week. The senior choir sang under the direction of George Green, principal. Refreshments were served to the graduating class by the women of the Parent-teacher Association.

The Studio Players of C.F.C.T. are returning to the air, and will present "The Mystery of Harlow Manor." The story will occupy thirteen weeks, continuing until a few days before Christmas. The first thirty-minute episode will be presented from C.F.C.T. at 8:30 o'clock this evening. All the mysterious happenings occur in Harlow Manor, not far from London, a modern addition to an old ruin which is reputed to date back to the days of Queen Elizabeth.

A largely attended and interesting meeting of the Women's Mission Circle of the Emmanuel Baptist Church was held yesterday afternoon. Mrs. O. H. Cogswell presided. The devotional topic being "God's Ownership." Arrangements were made for the annual Thanksgiving luncheon to be held on October 27. A mission band to be organized under the leadership of M. S. Richardson. The missionary subject, "Stewardship," was taken by Mrs. William Russell. A delightful solo was rendered by Mrs. George Anstey.

Who's Who
At Hotels

J. R. Muir, head of the moving-picture interests in British Columbia, came over from Vancouver to-day on one of his usual business visits.

Accompanying him is R. Rowe Holland, legal adviser to the amusement interests.

HOTEL MAGNATE HERE

Another business leader here to-day is Adolph Schmidt, Seattle, who is at the Empress Hotel, accompanied by Mrs. Schmidt. He is one of the heads of the Western Hotels, Inc., which operates the Hotel Georgia in Vancouver, a string of five high-class hotels in Seattle, including the Roosevelt and the Biltmore. Schmidt is similarly prominent hotels in other Coast cities. Mr. Schmidt conferred here with Stephen Jones of the Dominion Hotel on the hotel business on the Coast and the problems facing the trade during the coming season.

From Port Townsend there have arrived at the Empress Hotel, E. W. Erickson and A. B. Lowenstein.

From Medford there are Mrs. B. Preston and Mrs. C. Edgell on a vacation trip.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Clinger are up from Stockton, Cal.

Carl Brazier, managing-editor of The Seattle Times, arrived yesterday with Mrs. Brazier and will spend several days on the island.

END WILSON
ADVANCES IN U.S. TOURNEY

British Star Defeats Mrs. L. C. Nelson, Dayton, 4 and 2 in Golf Championship

Mrs. Charles Eddis, Last Canadian, Loses to Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare

Buffalo County Club, Williams-ville, N.Y., Sept. 23.—Favorites stroked their way safely through the second round of the U.S. women's golf championship to-day but two of them, Helen Hicks and Mrs. Leona Pressler, had to go extra holes to gain their third-round places.

Miss Hicks, Hewlett, L.I., women's eastern and New York state champion, won her match from Marion Hollins, Santa Cruz, Cal., on the nineteenth hole. Mrs. Pressler, San Gabriel, Cal., had to go to the twenty-first to dispose of young Fritz Stifel, Wheeling, W. Va., champion of her state.

END WILSON WINS

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, the defending champion, End Wilson, England's queen of the links, and Maureen Orrcutt, the big three of the field, all won comparatively easy victories. Mrs. Vare disposed of Mrs. Charles Eddis, Toronto, 4 and 3. Miss Wilson won from Mrs. L. C. Nelson, Dayton, Ohio, 4 and 2 and Miss Orrcutt disposed of Bernice Wall, Oakbrook, Wis., 5 and 4.

Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, another of the favorites and a finalist to Mrs. Vare in 1928 and 1'30, defeated Frances Williams, Lehigh, Pa., 5 and 4.

In the remaining two matched Marjorie Kerr, England, won from Jane Brooks, Nyack, N.Y., 2 and 1, and Mrs. Leo Federman, New York, took the measure of Mrs. Helen Payson Corson, Philadelphia, 2 and 1.

SEMI-FINALS ARE REACHED IN CITY GOLF

Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, Mrs. Bennett, Mrs. Paterson and Helen Wilson Win Matches

Semi-finals Scheduled at Colwood Links To-morrow; First Flight Results

Semi-finals were reached in the women's city golf championship at the Colwood Golf Club this morning. Three of the four matches played were close, but the fourth was settled by a decisive margin. The semi-finals will be played to-morrow with the final on Friday.

Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, Colwood club champion and winner of the medal honors, reached the semi-finals through her 6 and 4 victory over Mrs. Semple, last remaining Uplands player.

Mrs. Bennett, also from Colwood, advanced after a hard earned victory over Mrs. Walter Parry, Oak Bay south-paw, at the twentieth hole. They staged the most interesting match of the day, needing two extra holes to decide things.

OAK BAY PLAYERS WIN

In the lower half of the bracket two Oak Bay players came through. Mrs. Helen Peterson triumphed over her clubmate, Mrs. Alan McKill, 3 and 2, while Helen Wilson continued her march towards the final by eliminating Mrs. W. H. Lawson, 1 up. Mrs. Peterson was the first winner of the women's championship in the Empress midwinter tournament, while Miss Wilson is this year's champion.

In the semi-finals to-morrow Mrs. Sayward-Wilson will meet Mrs. Bennett, while Mrs. Paterson will be opposed by Miss Wilson.

The first round of the first flight was also played this morning with the following results:

Mrs. Jackson beat Mrs. W. H. Squire, 6 and 5.

Miss Pitt-Gibson beat Joan Hutchison, 4 and 3.

Mrs. C. E. Wilson won from Laura Audain, by default.

Mary Campbell beat Mrs. Driscoll, 6 and 5.

TOLME SEEKS
P.G.E. EXTENSION
IN AID PLAN

Would Have Ottawa Take Up Scheme to Give Work to 6,000 Men

Vancouver, Sept. 23.—Premier S. F. Tolmie sent a delegation to Ottawa seeking to have the Dominion Government take over the extension of the Peace River as an unemployment relief measure.

Dr. Tolmie believes that from 6,000 to 8,000 men could be absorbed in this work during the coming winter.

It is planned to include issue of land rights to men on ships, complementing their pay under the relief scheme. This script would later be good for payment on lands for settlement in the Peace River district.

The delegation to Ottawa are Willard Kitchen, P.G.E. director; Gen. J. W. Stewart, Gen. J. A. Clark and Major C. R. Crysdale, who is the engineer who made the P.G.E. survey for the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, and the provincial government. This group is armed with plans and estimates of the cost of the project.

Support of the proposal is expected from Hon. H. H. Stevens, who will present it to Premier Bennett as one of the province's projects for alleviating unemployment.

Surveys for the project, which will involve extension of the railway from Quesnel through the new Cottonwood River crossing, have been completed, and if the Dominion accepts the scheme work can be started soon.

Cars Without Accessories
Being Watched

Drivers of automobiles not properly equipped with the accessories demanded by the Motor Vehicle Act had better look out. Peter Low, Chinese youth, paid out over the cost of everything he was charged with not having.

He was stopped by Constable E. Claydars for reversing direction in the middle of a block on Blanshard Street. The court assessed $10 for this offense.

The constable discovered he did not have a rear view mirror giving a clear view of the road behind his car. "Fined $5," the magistrate said.

And another thing. There was no windshield wiper on the car. That cost him $3 more.

The youth pleaded guilty to all charges.

Police are checking up on all these points in connection with the traffic campaign now in progress.

SUCCESSFUL BIDDER NOT YET KNOWN

No Announcement Yet on Contract for Repair of Norwegian Freighter Bonneville

It will be to-morrow morning before the successful bidder for repairs to the Norwegian motorship Bonneville is known, it was learned here early this afternoon.

The bids were opened this morning and it was found necessary to cable the head office of the company in Odense, Norway. A reply is not expected before to-morrow morning. Four firms are bidding on the job, Yarrow's Limited and the Victoria Machinery Depot of Victoria, the Wallace Shipyard of Vancouver and the Todd Drydock of Seattle.

Meanwhile the Bonneville is tied up alongside the Government wharf at the drydock at Esquimalt, having been floated out this morning. Drydocking and survey showed that she is quite badly damaged and that the repairs will take several weeks. It is thought they will be completed by the end of the month. The ship is owned by the Bonneville, with which company the ship is insured, is in Victoria handling all business connected with the ship's grounding.

The Sanich Council will meet this evening in works committee to select the jobs which will be first commenced under the programme of relief works by the municipality this winter. This will enable a start to be made immediately approval of the programme is accorded by the authorities at Ottawa.

Sanich has submitted to the province a scheme of betterment to be carried out in the ward of the city. The programme will cover a period of about nine months and will give employment to every ward of the city.

Luscombe Sues For Choking Dunnett For Bullet Wounds

Details of the shooting of Harry Norman Dunnett at the Prospect Lake shack of Charles Luscombe last October were spread before Judge Lammman in the County Court to-day as Luscombe sued Dunnett for $1,000 damages for beating him and attempting to choke him, and Dunnett counter-sued for $1,000 for his suffering and expenses as a result of the wounds inflicted by the bullets shot from a gun in the hands of Luscombe.

The case was tried at the spring assizes, when Luscombe was acquitted of the shooting.

Chief Allan Rankin of the Saanich police was put on the stand by R. C. Lowe, counsel for Luscombe. The chief told of being called to the Luscombe shack, where he found Dunnett lying on the bed shot, and with a keg of loganberry wine nearby. He produced the keg in court, and on charts traced the course of the bullets which had been shot in the house, two of which had entered Dunnett's body.

"What was Dunnett doing when you carried him on the stretcher to the ambulance," asked Mr. Lowe.

"He was singing away, the song was, 'Meet Me in the Moonlight,'" replied the chief.

The chief went on to tell that Luscombe explained Dunnett had come to his house with a crock of loganberry wine. He said he was drunk, and wanted him to go out. When he refused, he threw him on the bed and tried to strangle him. Luscombe fired one shot first to scare him, but when Dunnett grabbed him more tightly he fired again.

Other witnesses put on the stand by Mr. Lowe were Alan Benson Ford, John Richard Collier and Luscombe himself.

W. T. Straith, defence counsel, put Dr. J. P. Vye on the stand at noon. The trial is continuing.

The Sanich Council will meet this evening in works committee to select the jobs which will be first commenced under the programme of relief works by the municipality this winter. This will enable a start to be made immediately approval of the programme is accorded by the authorities at Ottawa.

Sanich has submitted to the province a scheme of betterment to be carried out in the ward of the city. The programme will cover a period of about nine months and will give employment to every ward of the city.

Some criticism of the suggestions, which were devised by Reeve Crouch, has been expressed by councillors. It is feared that annual maintenance costs imposed by such a construction programme will be far beyond the ability of the respective wards to meet in later years.

WANT SEWERS LAID

In the inner wards a number of aggressive advocates of sewer construction are considering a campaign for a comprehensive system, with the municipality providing the material and one-fourth of the labor costs. Plans made some years ago showed the cost would then have been $800,000. It is believed that the gross cost to-day would be much lower for both labor and materials. The government construction, it is considered, would bring the balance chargeable to Sanich down to a figure which would assure approval at the polls of a local improvement by-law to levy the cost against the area benefited.

Federal Government Ready to Give Half Costs on 65 Per Cent Labor Basis

Vancouver, Sept. 23.—On condition that 65 per cent of money expended by British Columbia cities and municipalities on unemployment relief work shall be for labor, the Dominion Government will pay 80 per cent of the cost of materials used.

This is the final agreement reached by provincial government officials with Senator Glendon Robertson, Dominion Labor Minister, it is announced by Hon. R. W. Bruhn, provincial Minister of Public Works.

In effect this means the federal government will pay one-half the total cost of all relief work undertaken by Vancouver and municipalities both in labor and materials, when the ratio of expense on the particular work is 65 per cent for labor and 34 per cent for materials. There are some works, it was pointed out by Mr. Bruhn, where there would be great expense on materials, but labor would not be a corresponding benefit.

The agreement between the two governments will be signed by Premier S. F. Tolmie in Victoria on Friday according to present plans.

"This policy applies to the city of Vancouver as well as to other municipalities," declared Mr. Bruhn.

The federal government will also pay fifty per cent on any work on the B.C. section of the transcanada highway, as well as other highway construction which is performed as unemployment relief work. Such construction must be first approved by Ottawa.

Direct relief to individuals will be given on the same basis as last year, with the municipality, province and Dominion each paying one-third of the cost.

SHOULD MEET CRISIS WITH WAR SPIRIT

Minister of Labor Addresses
Trades and Labor Congress
in Vancouver

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 23.—Appeal to Canadians to meet the present economic crisis with the same spirit which they displayed during the Great War, to take their individual part in the co-operation which was the example of their governments, Dominion, provincial and municipal, was made by Hon. Glendon Robertson, Minister of Labor, to-day in an address to the convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Senator Robertson spoke not only as a minister but as an accredited delegate to the convention. After reviewing the efforts of the Dominion and other governments to meet the situation last year, the minister went on to say that the co-operative effort has been intensified this year. It has been recognized that while conditions in eastern Canada are bad, the west has been hardest hit. Therefore, the governments have agreed to pay of the cost of relief work instead of one-quarter, as they did last year.

NATIONAL PARKS

During his present trip west, the minister announced, he has made arrangements for the Dominion Government to undertake immediate works in national parks, which will employ nearly 2,000 men. A proportion of these men will be drawn from the urban areas. Some of these projects will be under way within a few days.

QUESTION OF FOOD

"We must remember that the crisis is not only national, but international. Not only is the co-operation of your different governments necessary, but also that of the citizens of Canada. It is just as necessary now as it was during the years from 1914 to 1918, when we made such great sacrifices. It is not a case of guns and explosives now, but a case of seeing that there is food for hungry men and women and children. It calls for the same national patriotic spirit which I believe will flow again in this country through all classes."

He was certain, continued the minister, that Canadians were too sensible to be led astray by such new doctrines as were being propagated in the Dominion during this time of crisis.

WAGE STANDARDS

The minister found satisfaction in the fact that wage standards were being maintained in most parts of Canada. He dealt at some length with the plight of the Prairie farmers and the tremendous drop in revenue which they faced as a result of the spreading crop failures, each year spreading over a wider area. The situation this year was nothing short of tragic.

Heart of Liane
by MABEL McELLIOTT

"All the same," Liane insisted aloud, "I shall have the display and all that fuss. I wish I needn't be married quite this way."

"You owe it to your new position, darling," Cass said quietly. "That's something you mustn't forget."

She was silent a minute. Then she murmured with apparent irrelevance, "Miss Lord hasn't gone south. I wonder why."

Liane said, "Oh, she likes it here. She has such a gay time. So many beaux. I suppose she hates to leave."

Cass's eyes were on the ceiling. "Mrs. Cleopatra is rather annoyed with her. About the way she acted the night of your—the night of the ball."

Liane laughed. "What was it? Did she refuse to marry?"

"I don't know what she said but there's a coolness between them. Mrs. Amberton admitted to me that her sister lacked tact."

There was silence for a few minutes while Liane continued to regard the landscape with languid eyes.

"Just the same," Cass burst out at length. "I hope she goes soon. She's a mischief maker. She likes Clive too well for her own good."

"They've known each other forever," Liane suggested.

"I know. That's just it. Apparently she has always thought he'd wait for her. She's been playing around all over the world and now she's tired of it and wants a soft berth. She doesn't relish the thought."

Liane sighed. "Mother, you talk as if marriage were a situation."

Cass said firmly. "That's what it is for a woman who isn't trained to do work in the world. My life was different. Tom and I worked together. We married young and we didn't have any money, but we had love. That's everything."

"And you had me," Liane reminded her.

"Yes, we had you," Cass's voice made Liane glance at her. Cass stood up suddenly. "I've been yawning long enough," she said briskly. "I must go downstairs and write letters. I promised Mrs. Cleopatra I would send out some cheques for her."

Liane longed to detain her and ask the questions which had been troubling her on the tip of her tongue for weeks. Cass's words spoken in that tone came back now with startling force. "Lula wouldn't want her to know she's mine. I've earned her."

What was the secret, Cass hid? Liane longed to ask but dare not. She lay there in the half light. Nora came in and softly moved about, touching the red lamp until they glowed in spots of vivid color about the luxurious room.

"You'll have your tea here, Miss?" "No, I believe I'll dress and go down." The doctor said I might.

With the maid's help Liane slipped out of her robe and into a black frock. In it she looked almost transparently fair and fragile. Her knees trembled under her.

"You're still shaky, miss," the girl said, sympathetically.

"I'm all right," Liane answered her.

She went down the great staircase slowly, holding to the railing. A murmur of voices came to her from the small sitting-room. Her untidy legs took her deliberately as far as the door.

"Thought I ought to tell you before—" hand," Cass was saying in a troubled tone.

Liane stopped. She scarcely knew why. Mrs. Cleopatra's reply was not entirely clear but the young girl heard the last few words, "—no surprise to me. I was aware of it from the first. I am glad, however, you told me yourself."

Liane felt herself trembling. Almost she turned back but the sound of Tressa's voice and the opening of the great front door forced her onward.

The two women looked up guiltily, she thought, at her entrance.

"Why, my dear!" Mrs. Cleopatra began in a tone of benevolent concern. "Are you sure you ought to have done this? You look quite shaken, even yet."

They made her sit down, fussed over her. Cass said, "I was just telling Mrs. Cleopatra that I expect to go back to town as soon as the wedding is over. I have had a good offer in a Shaprio play. I didn't want to tell you until you were on your feet."

"She's hopeless!" Mrs. Cleopatra murmured, fluttering over the tea tray. "She can't be content to sit still and rest for a bit. I told her I knew she was like that."

The two women smiled at each other but Liane was not convinced. In her heart she knew there was something else afoot.

"That isn't what mother meant," she murmured. "I wonder what it is all about."

Next day Clive announced he had to go to Richmond on business.

"I wish you didn't have to go," Liane said.

"Mother's glad to get me out of the house. I never saw such a flurry. Boxes keep arriving even in the middle of the night. And caterers' men!" He shook his head.

"I tell you what! Put on your hat and come in town with me. We'll get a license at City Hall and be married to-day! You can go to Richmond with me and we'll avoid all the fuss."

Liane looked bright and mischievous. "Liane shook her head. 'Can't. Your mother would never forgive us. He put out his hand, touched her awkwardly. 'Look here, is it me you're marrying? Or mother?'"

"Silly," she shook him off. "You'll marry your train."

She stood on the steps, young and flushed and triumphant, in her riding trunks. Clive had been seeing that she had lessons and she was doing very well he told her proudly. Her coat and breeches of pale gray cloth fitted her charmingly. Her boots shone like old mahogany. Her casual hat was just right. She might have posed for an illustration in a magazine devoted to country life.

"Silly," she put her small gloved hand in his, for goodbye.

"Mayn't I say good-bye to you properly?"

"Out here with Kelly and all the grooms standing around?" She shook her head at him, all maidenly primness. "I'll see you Tuesday."

He rode off in a cloud of dust. Liane sighing a little, went into the house. She had meant it when she said she hated to have him go away. Clive stood as a bulwark between her and her mother's importunate fussing, between her and Tressa Lord's barbed hatred. She didn't love Clive but she was fond of him.

Why didn't she love him. He was young and attractive. His blue eyes could kindle with a darkening light.

His young mouth had a passionate curve to it. She liked his voice. She liked his sense of humor, his kindness. But the spark—well, it just wasn't there.

She met Mrs. Cleopatra on the landing.

"My dear, such a stupid thing! One of Christine's girls called just now to say your fitting is to-day as if, instead of to-morrow. I'm so sorry. You might have gone in with Clive but it's too late for that now. Kelly will have to take you. I've just rung the garage."

"I'll change right away," Liane answered.

When she came down ten minutes later, she found Tressa Lord curled up in one of the hall chairs.

"What—off to town again?" Tressa asked.

"Yes, I have to go. A fitting."

"Too bad. Thought we might have some bride-wear ready."

Liane was puzzled by the other's change of front. Tressa had scarcely spoken to her for a week. Then the girl drove up and she dismissed the matter, climbing in, waving her hand. Tressa went down the steps and disappeared around the rear of the car. "Probably going to the stables," Liane thought.

Kelly was a careful driver so it was with a sensation of real alarm that Liane observed shortly that the big car was pumping and careening rapidly over the ruts. The chauffeur glanced back at her before drawing to a stop.

"It's only a flat, Miss Barrett," he said indignantly. "But Mademoiselle was to make time and this'll hold us up a bit."

"There's no garage anywhere in sight," Liane said, anxiously consulting her watch. "Oh, I can change it in a jiffy," Kelly assured her.

Liane took out her vanity case and began absently to redress her lips. Absorbed in this occupation, she scarcely heard the purring of the car drawn up beside her.

A voice, asked mockingly, "Is the lady stranded?"

Liane looked up to see Van Robard, unbelievably handsome, incredibly debonaire, smiling at her.

CHAPTER XXXI

Sitting on that stone wall along the quiet Long Island road Liane stared at the man before her, scarcely crediting her own eyes. It seemed false that she should encounter Van Robard at every turn.

Inwardly fluttered but outwardly calm she returned his salutation. "Kelly's struggling with a flat and I'm late for a dressmaker's appointment," she told him. Her heart thudded in her breast. She struggled for composure.

Now Van Robard said cavalierly, "I'm going to town. Can't I give you a lift?"

She wanted desperately to say no but common sense forbade. A minute later she still the red-faced chauffeur tore at the stubborn rim.

"I'm awfully glad I'll have to accept," she said. And could have bitten her lips for the stupid words.

Robert laughed shortly. "Sorry you feel that way about it," he told her. "I'm no more. I don't eat little girls."

Liane was already on her feet, all composure. "I'm just stupid. You mustn't mind me," she stammered, tongue-tied as always in this man's presence.

Kelly came toward them wiping his brow. "I'll be a matter of ten—maybe fifteen minutes more, Miss," he said, touching his cap to Robard, whom he knew.

"I'll be a matter of ten—maybe fifteen minutes more, Miss," he said, touching his cap to Robard, whom he knew.

Van helped her into his car. She was suddenly conscious of her looks, of her slippers and slippers in the smoke-colored frock and coat.

Cajoling he said as they were their way in and out of the increasing traffic. "Won't you lunch with me? I haven't had a chance to talk to you for ages."

The color flooded her face. "I'm afraid not. I have a sort of engagement. I was going to telephone to mother."

He stifled her objections. "Nonsense. You're lunching with me."

They were driving through a town now. Street cars, policemen, pedestrians, all became a blur to Liane. She was only aware that for a short time she and Van Robard were together.

"I'll drop you at 57th Street and come back in an hour," she announced. Liane did not answer. The red light flashed on and Van brought the engine to a standstill. He had a moment in which to turn to her, to cover her hand with his free one. "You and I have so much to say to each other, sweet," he told her. "And well do you know it!"

The spell was on her once more. She could not say no to this man.

The entrance to Christine Limited is a symphony in mauve. Curtains shading from plum to lilac shut out the din of 57th Street. The carpet is deep purple, so soft and thick that one's feet sink into the pile. The ceiling is pale lavender, studded with silver stars. There is about the place a faint, elusive scent of spring flowers. No hint is given of the crude, noisy workroom upstairs where Frenchwomen in sleazy black frocks drape fabric over their arms and whisk around girls work in slovenly fashion for eight dollars a week.

No, Christine's main salon is all suavity and richness. Liane felt it that late November day when she arrived to have her wedding dress fitted. A year ago she would have been timid in this place. Now she felt quite at home, as the fiancée of Clive Cleopatra of Willow Stream and Park Avenue she was accepted, fawned over.

A woman in a perfectly fitting black dress came toward her and murmured, "Ah, Miss Barrett. I'll take you to Miss Lilly."

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Candy Party

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

"Is everything all ready for the candy party?" asked Mr. Longears of her rabbit husband one day.

Oh, yes, I think so, my dear," he answered as he blew her a kiss off the tip of his pink, twinkling nose. Such a kiss was best for rabbit ladies.

"You have plenty of candy, haven't you?" asked Mrs. Longears.

"Yes, indeed," replied her husband. "I hopped to the store and bought some candy for your party and Johnnie Bushball bought some pops and lollipops to be more correct. And with the sticks from the lollipops Johnnie tickled the magazoolium who wanted to pull my nose."

"I'm glad he didn't pull it," said the rabbit lady.

"So am I," echoed her husband. "My nose is plenty long enough as it is. And the magazoolium had pulled it, why, it would be so much longer and then I might step on it when I went hopping off looking for an adventure."

"Everything seems to happen for the best," spoke the rabbit lady. "And if you will kindly get some plates and set them out on flat stumps and under the trees, I'll call the children to come to the candy party."

"It shall be done immediately, which means at once," said Uncle Wiggily.

"He told the gum drops, the jelly beans, the marshmallows and other pieces of candy on plates and set them out beneath the trees. And then Mrs. Longears called:

She thought some cinnamon drops. "Whoo-o-o! Whoo-o-o! Whoo-o-o!"

"Are you calling for a jiffy bunny to stop at the corner?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"No, indeed," his wife answered with a laugh. "I am calling the children to our candy party."

Once more she loudly called: "Whoo-o-o! Whoo-o-o! Whoo-o-o!"

And from the woods and fields the rabbit children answered: "We are coming!"

Along hopped Baby Bunt, Jingle, Cuckoo, Buster, and all the bunnies boys and girls until all around the hollow stump bungalow you could have seen forty seven sixteen rabbits striding rushing up to the flat stumps to get the candies set out for the party.

Uncle Wiggily and his wife had about four candy parties each year. One was at Easter, another at Christmas, and another at Fourth of July and the last was on September 23, which is to-day.

"Oh, isn't this lovely!" said Jingle as she took up a paw full of jelly beans from the stump where Uncle Wiggily had put them.

"It's the nicest party we ever had!" said Jingle.

"I call it," said Buster, who sometimes pretended he was an English rabbit living beneath a hedge in Surrey or some such place as that.

"Top hole, old chap," said his brother Cuckoo, who was making believe he was a Worcestershire rabbit.

"Did you get any red cinnamon drops, Uncle Wigg?" asked Baby Bunt, who was all the baby talk she was allowed.

"Oh, yes, lots of red cinnamon drops," said Mr. Longears. "You will find them over on that little stump near the sassafras bush, Bunt," he said.

Bunt hopped over to the flat stump near the sassafras bush and, as she did, all of a sudden, out popped the cross old Bear.

"I want to nibble Uncle Wiggily!" howled the Cross Bear.

"But I am not going to let you!" said Bunt.

"How can you stop me?" the Bear wanted to know.

"With these," cried Baby Bunt. With that she threw some of the red cinnamon drops in the eyes of the Bear and cinnamon drops not being good for eyes, they made tears come into the eyes of the Bear, for they smarted him.

"Oh, woe! I am crying so hard I can't see to nibble a rabbit!" howled the Bear. And with tears running down into his shoes, away he scampered and he didn't get the bunny gentlemen after all. Then the candy party went on and on, everybody had a fine time. And if the baker's house will stop taking the chicken's eggs to throw at the milkman, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's little shower.

URBAN CENTRES OUGHT TO PAY MORE FOR ROADS

Trucking Owners Derive More Benefit From Highways Than Rural Citizens

S. L. Squire Heard By Canadian Good Roads Convention To-day

Lucerne-in-Quebec, Que., Sept. 23.—Urban centres should contribute more to the construction and maintenance of the permanent commercialized highways of the Dominion, as they derive more benefit from such highways than rural citizens, S. L. Squire, chairman of the executive committee of the Canadian Good Roads Association, told a convention meeting of the association to-day.

The commercial trucking companies that use the rural highways were urban investments, and so were the trucks of the delivery fleets, both demanding a higher grade and more permanent type of highway than rural life demands, said Mr. Squire. Good roads brought tourist business to the city in greater proportion than to the rural districts. It was apparent, said Mr. Squire, that the large proportion of highway expenses should be apportioned to the urban centres.

In conclusion Mr. Squire said that the motorist should certainly pay for the roads he was using so frequently. Canada was exceeded only by the United States in per capita ownership of automobiles, and in 1930 had 1,224,008 cars registered.

The Dominion at present has some 28,000 level crossings scattered along railways from coast to coast despite expenditure of $15,189,000 over the past twenty-one years towards elimination and amelioration of this menace to traffic, according to Hon. Frank Oliver, advisory officer to the Board of Railway Commissioners.

In 1930, a total of 341 railway crossing accidents in Canada took a toll of 115 lives and 475 injured, Mr. Oliver stated. Through the efforts of the Board of Railway Commissioners much had been done to improve railway crossing conditions, Mr. Oliver continued.

The annual government grant of $300,000 to the board for the railway crossing fund was inadequate, the speaker said, and it would be impossible to entirely remove all level crossings in the Dominion.

COMMON SENSE

"Better than all we can do for safety and protection," said Mr. Oliver, "is the common sense of the motorist. Caution would prevent the majority of such terrible accidents."

Canada has invested in highway systems over $900,000,000 and is adding to that investment at the rate of $65,000,000 per year but collecting highway revenue only to the extent of $41,000,000 per year. These figures were presented to the convention by S. W. Fairweather, secretary of the Bureau of Economics of the Canadian National Railways. He warned the country against plunging too deeply into highway expenditures without making adequate plans for a return on the investment.

Mr. Fairweather estimated that the cost of maintaining the present highway system and taking care of the increase in traffic would require an additional $100,000,000 annually.

Mr. Fairweather believed the license fees on private cars too high, but he saw possibility of a gasoline tax of ten cents a gallon and registration fees on heavy transport trucks as high as $500.

LADYSMITH NOTES

Ladysmith, Sept. 23.—A whist drive and harvest home social was held by St. John's Church on Monday evening in St. John's Hall. Prize winners at cards were: Ladies, first, Mrs. J. F. Patterson; second, Mrs. I. E. Louie; gentlemen, first, Mr. J. E. McDonald (substitute); second, J. W. Atkinson. After refreshments had been served a sale of fruit and vegetables was held. Miss M. McKay of Chatham, Ontario, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. Branch this week.

Mr. W. Robinson has returned to Vancouver after being the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Cornley, for two weeks. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Mildred Cornley, who will spend a holiday with her.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Myers have returned to Vancouver after being guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Flemming.

What Is the Best
Age
for Women?

Dorothy Dix

Finds
Last Days
Pleasant

Mr
And Mrs—

The Pleasantest Time of a Woman's Entire Life Is In the Sixties, When She Is Still Young Enough
To Do Anything She Wants to Do, and Too Old
To Do Anything She Does Not Want to Do

WHAT age is the pleasantest time of woman's life? Most people would say unhesitatingly: When she is sweet and twenty and she is young and gay and light-hearted. Care and responsibility have not begun to stalk her footsteps. If nature has been kind to her she is at the full tide of her beauty and, in any event, she has the freshness and charm of girlhood. Her head and her heart are full of romantic dreams and she is waiting for the next turn of the wheel of fate to bring her Prince Charming.

"Oh, yes," they say, "girlhood is the best time of life for a woman." But I do not think so. I do not think that youth is the happiest time of life for men or women, for if it is the time when there is the keenest edge on pleasures, it is also the time when sorrow stabs the deepest into our souls.

The one compensating gift of youth is philosophy. We learn that nothing is final, that nothing is as bad as it seems at first, that there are always consolations, that the sun rises on even the darkest night. But youth has not found this out and so its disappointments are blinding and it weeps without hope.

It is this lack of a point of view that keeps girlhood from being the happiest time of a woman's life. It seems to her that if she has not been invited to a party to which she wants to go, there is nothing in life worth living. She is ashamed if she is not popular with the boys. She eats out of heart in longing for finery and for dates. She goes through an agony of tears her very soul if she is a wallflower at a dance.

And she lives in a constant inward turmoil because she has not found herself. She does not know what she wants of life nor how to go about finding it. She is a welter of emotions that she does not understand. She longs for love, yet is uncertain of her own feelings. Love attracts and repulses her and she hangs between I will and I will not and there is no peace for her. It is only when she is older and has forgot what she went through when she was twenty that makes a woman speak of her girlhood as the happiest time of her life.

Around thirty-five is one of the pleasantest times of a woman's life. Then she has settled down to the business of life and got into her stride. She has definite objectives and is no longer tormented with doubts and fears and decisions, as she was when she was a girl.

She is either married or else indifferent to marriage. She has learned to look upon the world through humorous and tolerant eyes and to extract diversion even out of adverse circumstances. If she is in business or a profession she is making headway in it. If she is married, her husband and her heart are full of her husband, her children and her home.

She is busy, occupied, useful, feeling that she is doing constructive and worthwhile work. It is while she is in her thirties that the average wife is closer to her husband than she is at any other time during their married life, because it is then that she is most useful to him, that she is working with shoulder to shoulder helping him to build up his fortune and sharing with him all his hopes and dreams and ambitions. Success weans a man away from his wife, but struggle draws him closer to her, and many a husband looks back upon the days in which she got up at 6 o'clock to cook her husband's breakfast and stayed up at night washing his shirt patching his trousers as the happiest time of her life.

The latter forties are the worst time of a woman's life. They are her years of woe when she sees her good looks slipping from her, when her hair greys and the wrinkles come despite massage; when she loses her figure and cosmetics become a snare and a delusion to her.

It is the time when her children grow up and marry and leave her and she stands with idle, empty hands not knowing what to do with herself how to find fresh interests and occupations.

And most of all it is a time of anxiety about her husband and how to hold him, and how to compete with flappers who are not half her age and weigh thirty pounds less and who have the advantage of novelty to their side.

It takes craft and skill and seamanship for a woman to have worked out a plan that shows every rock and reef of her husband's disposition, to enable her to steer safely through the roaring forties, and when she gets by them breathes a sigh of relief and thanks God that she does not have to make a return trip.

In reality the pleasantest time of a woman's entire life is in the sixties. It is the ideal age because then she is still young enough to do anything she wants to do and too old to do anything she does not want to do. She has in her age the one perfect ally.

Most women of sixty have better health and more money than they ever before and the first real freedom. If they are widows, they have the consolation of the dear departed's insurance. If their husbands are still living, they have either learned how to get along with them in harmony or are so indifferent they do not care what they do.

Moreover, in her sixties a woman does not have to keep up the pretence of youth any longer. She can eat what she likes and be as homely as God made her and no woman ever knows what happiness really is until she can let out her corset strings and cease counting her calories and celebrate her birthdays.

One that the last days of a woman should be better than her first, is it not?

The Earth's Inside

What is the inside of the earth like? "seismograph" helps us to answer that question. This instrument is an earthquake "tremor," even though they start from a point thousands of miles away. Scientists can now fast tremors travel through the earth, and their tests lead them to believe that the inside of the earth is hot, and possibly to as much as 10,000 degrees.

We might think that the inside of the earth would melt if it is so hot, but the intense pressure appears to leave no room for melting to take place. At places where openings exist in surface rock layers, "lava" comes pouring forth from time to time through the holes of volcanoes.

Volcanoes serve as "safety-valves" for the earth. If all volcanoes were closed up for ten thousand years, the outward pressure from the hot material beneath might become so great as to blow the earth's "crust" sky-high. (Place this article in "Science" section of your scrapbook.)

LIQUOR SALES

Canadian Press

Toronto, Sept. 23.—Reports that 10,000 permits of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario had been sold Monday in Windsor were denied yesterday by Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the board. The convention of the American Legion opened Monday at Detroit, Mich., across the river from Windsor, and there were reports sale of permits had shown a sharp increase. The total number of permits sold was about 1,400, said Sir Henry. Gross sales were not anywhere near $10,000, as was suggested, but were in the neighborhood of $5,000, he declared.

Premier Vacuum Head Tells How Instalment System Stands Test

Further, the slackness of these major groups had produced its inevitable repercussions in every subsidiary line of industrial activity, and the output of mines and factories of the country dropped to the lowest level touched for eight years, and because of the world-wide character of the depression and the reduced purchasing power of foreign nations, the export trade, so triumphantly prosperous during the boom period in the United States and Canada, failed to bring much relief in a year of domestic inactivity.

BAD BY COMPARISON ONLY

At the same time, Mr. Tuteur pointed out, as had been emphatically

Stabbing pain in hip and thigh
T-R-C's completely relieved this case of Sciatica and Neuritis combined. The sufferer was Mrs. Redden, Calgary, Alta. Her husband writes: "I got a $1 box of T-R-C's for my wife who had been troubled with Sciatica in the left hip and Neuritis in the left hand. She now seems completely better." Equally good for Rheumatism, Lame Back, Neuritis, Neuralgia. No harmful drugs. 50c and $1.

So that, out of the present trouble, great good would unquestionably eventuate.

Discussing the instalment buying system, Mr. Tuteur remarked that it had been regarded by some of its apologists as the greatest prop of U.S. and Canadian prosperity in recent years, and by its critics as a dangerous device, likely to complicate a bad situation in hard times.

GENERAL REDUCTION

"This is probably due," said Mr. Tuteur, "to the manner in which installment sales have been financed, namely, by the establishment of a large group of capably managed finance companies that purchase the credit paper from the manufacturers and dealers and use it as collateral for such credit from banks and other sources as they may need themselves for carrying on the business."

for carrying on the business of the company, which is maintained by the installment business within a very wide margin. It is believed that at its highest point, it has already exceeded $6,000,000. The company is one of the largest in the retail trade of the United States and Canada. It has played a notable part in sustaining prices of all classes of goods, and enabling the production of new and improved production techniques of many industries. The installment selling system could not have been applied on anything approaching the scale in any country where the income is at an average, it was not well above the subsistence point; and there is no question. Mr. Tutun stated, but that at the moment signs of greater business progress are greater than that system will give a great fillip to local trade.

The largest known specimen of brook trout taken by an angler was that caught by Dr. J. W. Cook, Fort William, Ont., in the MacDonald Rapids of the Nipigon River, and weighed 14½ pounds. This record brook trout was caught in the presence of ten witnesses.

Millions of Canadians have found in Turret the Cigarette which is mild and fragrant, yet perfectly satisfying.

After all, nothing can replace good, honest tobacco; grown and ripened right out in the field under nature's own sunlight—nothing artificial about that—and the high quality is "inbred".
